

Rondout Raw Sewage—More Criticism

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE
Criticism of a plan to spend $25,000 to dump raw sewage into the Rondout Creek in this village continues to mount as the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers moves closer to the starting date of the project, less than two weeks away.

Mayor William P. Curran has released three letters attacking the Corps' plan as being "not in accordance with basic sound engineering," and one that asks that the Corps "reverse your stand immediately." Meanwhile in Albany, the State Health Department is waiting for final engineering information on the project from the Corps before making a decision on the case. An official of the department said that office will forward the Corps plan to the Ulster County Health Department for its recommendation before making any judgment.

The health department has control over the issue of permits to operate such systems and informal opinion both in Albany and Kingston is that none would be issued unless something were included for pollution control.

Harry Edinger of the Ulster County Health Department went on record this week as being opposed to "further" pollution of the creek with the Corps plan and said he had not seen any pollution control on the Army system. "No one has the right to discharge sewage," he said. William A. Bruce of the State Health Department, calling the sewerage line issue "a ticklish question," said the state office would have to follow the recommendations of the county health department as the Kingston office is closest to the scene. He noted that while permits are needed to operate the system, none are needed to construct it. "But, it would be foolish" for the Corps to build if they thought a permit would not be granted.

The letters released by Curran were the opinion of an engineer coordinator for the New York State Pure Waters Authority and copies of two letters from Paul M. Sturges, president of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Historical Society. The Society has been active recently in fighting pollution of the areas of Ulster County that contain remains of the old barge canal.

The corps, which has headed the $3 million Rondout Creek Flood Control Project for the past year of construction, contends that it is required to "return the area to the condition it was in before flood control" and that the installation of "headers" to collect sewage from homes along Main Street is part of that commitment. Army officials in New York City say they are "committed" and "have no other choice" but to go ahead with the plan within two weeks.

Homes along the street have dumped raw sewage into the creek since the area was built up in the 1850s, and Ulster County Health Department engineer Edinger says "they have been illegal." He said in most cases (Continued on Page 8, Col. 7)

On Their Way Home— Five GIs Killed by Mine

SAIGON (UPI)—A truck hit a Viet Cong mine killing five New Hampshire National Guardsmen who were driving away from the battlefield on their way to get processed out of Vietnam for home, military spokesmen said today.

On the fighting fronts, allied troops killed at least 265 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers Thursday. Eighteen Americans were killed and 87 wounded.

President Nixon continues a slow steady pressure on Hanoi to produce a dependable sign on peace. . . Story on Page 5.

The heaviest U.S. losses were in the Que Son Valley 340 miles northeast of Saigon where American forces have killed more than 1,000 North Vietnamese in the past 12 days. More than 80 U.S. soldiers have been killed in the same period. Thirteen American Marines were killed in the valley Thursday and 13 wounded. They killed 18 Communist troops.

A South Vietnamese patrol led by a U.S. Green Beret sergeant discovered an obsolete U.S. M41 tank hidden in an underground Communist bunker near Tay Ninh Thursday. Military spokesmen said it had been captured from South Vietnamese troops three years ago.

The five National Guardsmen were driving down a road 32 miles north of Saigon Tuesday when the truck's rear wheels hit 40 pounds of explosives.

All were of the 3rd Battalion, 197th Artillery, which had arrived in Vietnam in September, 1968 for a year's duty. All the rest of the battalion made it back to rear areas for processing home.

Military spokesmen said the U.S. M41 tank was the first found in Communist hands in provinces near Saigon. It was captured in a Viet Cong attack on South Vietnamese forces the night of March 24, 1966.

The 26-ton tank was in excellent condition and even had 51 rounds of ammunition for its 76mm gun, spokesmen said.

The M41 is no longer used by U.S. troops in Vietnam although the South Vietnamese use some of them.

On the battlefield, heavy fighting flared again in the Que Son Valley 30 miles south of Da Nang on the northern coast. Allied troops have been fighting a North Vietnamese division for nearly two weeks in the area.

Thirteen U.S. Marines were killed and 42 others wounded in a battle southwest of An Hoa. The Marines killed 18 Communist troops before they withdrew.

Spokesmen said the past 12 days of fighting in the Que Son Valley 340 miles northeast of Saigon had killed more than 1,000 North Vietnamese troops. More than 80 Americans were killed.

Elsewhere in Vietnam: Just below the demilitarized zone, North Vietnamese troops attacked bivouacking U.S. Marines Thursday night. Six North Vietnamese soldiers and three Marines were killed, and nine Marines were wounded.

U.S. headquarters said there were 21 enemy rocket and mortar attacks from 8 a.m. Thursday until 8 a.m. today, and 31 Americans were wounded.

A U.S. Army spokesman announced Thursday that the Green Berets in South Vietnam will get a new commander Saturday. Col. Michael D. Healy, former commander of the 9th Infantry Division's 1st Brigade, will succeed Col. Alexander Lemberges, who was named temporary commander after Col. Robert B. Rheault and seven other Green Berets were arrested last month on charges of murdering a South Vietnamese reported to have been a double agent.

The eight now are confined to quarters at Long Binh, 12 miles northeast of Saigon, waiting for the U.S. Command to decide whether they will be brought to trial.

An Apology Sought By North Koreans

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI)—North Korea said today the three crewmen of a U.S. Army helicopter shot down Aug. 17 over its territory are alive but wounded, two of them seriously.

The Communists said they would consider releasing the men only after the United States admits to the "criminal act" of sending the 'copter over North Korea and promises it will not happen again.

The first information on the fate of the crewmen was revealed at a meeting between Allied and Communist officials at the Korean Military Armistice Commission. Two previous requests for the information had been turned down.

This time, Maj. Gen. Ri Choon Sun of North Korea agreed to the demand of U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Arthur Adams. He said Capt. David H.

Crawford of Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman E. Hofstatter of Lowpoint, Ill., had suffered serious injuries. WO Malcolm V. Lopke of Richmond, Ind., was slightly hurt.

"They are now receiving medical treatment," Ri said, giving no details on the men's injuries. The OH23 helicopter went down just across the north-south border, 25 miles north of Seoul.

"You have stated that your side wounded three UNC (U.N. command) personnel on Aug. 17, 1969. Now I ask you to immediately return them for proper medical treatment," Adams told Ri.

The Communist general repeated earlier North Korean allegations the 'copter flew across the border on a hostile mission.

Adams replied: "I told you emphatically that the helicopter was not dispatched to fly over North Korean territory and had no hostile intention against your side."

Ri refused to accept Adams' answer and continued in the 105-minute meeting to demand the United States disclose its "military purpose" in the incident.

U.S. officials have said the bubble-topped observation helicopter was unarmed and had strayed off course when it was shot down. Witnesses watching from South Korea corroborated the contention.

In demanding an American apology this time and an assurance that such an incident would not happen again, Ri said:

"If your side frankly admits the criminal act of having dispatched a military aircraft into our side and seriously violated our sovereignty in a flagrant violation of the armistice agreement and apologizes to our side for it and submits a document guaranteeing in a responsible manner that you will not commit such a violation of the armistice agreement again, following the past practice, we will consider your request for the return of the pilots who are in our hands."

Man Fights for Life After Shooting

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
A 52-year-old man today was fighting for his life after nine hours of emergency surgery at Benedictine Hospital, as the result of a bullet wound of the chest suffered when he was shot during a quarrel on the railroad tracks off Field Court. Angel Rivera, no permanent address, was in the intensive care unit at the hospital in critical condition.

Accused of the Thursday shooting is Alonzer Trammell,

50, who gave his address as 303 Foxhall Avenue. He is held in $20,000 bail on a first degree assault charge. Police said Trammell is a key witness in the strangulation murder of 61-year-old Mrs. Theresa Carpino at the Circle Bar and Grill on upper Broadway on July 1. Det. Sgt. Charles McCullough who directed the investigation with Police Chief Francis Fagen, said Rivera and Trammell apparently had been drinking and at about 2 p. m. the two men accompanied by George Bailey, went to the rear of the UPA warehouse off Field Court. An argument between Rivera and Trammell ended when the latter allegedly fired a shot from a .22 rifle and dropped Rivera with a bullet in the chest.

Trammell fled from the scene police said, and was picked up on Albany Avenue shortly after 4 p. m. by Officers William Mulford and Howard Bernard who had just completed their tour of duty.

Trammell was arraigned before Special City Judge George A. Beck at 5:30 p. m. The accused man cried out several times at arraignment, "I didn't do it judge."

Earlier in the day, Rivera had pleaded guilty in court to public intoxication and Judge Beck meted out a 15-day suspended sentence after Trammell assured the court he had a job for Rivera in Newburgh. Beck said that Rivera and Trammell left the courtroom yesterday morning accompanied by Bailey, who police said was an eyewitness to the shooting.

Det. Sgt. Meyer Levy, Otto Short and Joseph Ferrera figured in the investigation. Asst. Dist. Atty. Ellen Donovan appeared for the People at the arraignment.

Confirming the report that the grand jury had completed its investigation of the case, Trafficanti did not disclose the names of witnesses called.

The original disclosure that the check had been altered was made by Village Trustee Rivan Krieger at a July 7 meeting of the board. At that time he tried to have Boucher removed from office but failed. His motion was not seconded.

Boucher had served in office since Nov. 18 at a salary of $12,000. That was increased by $500 on July 1.

Grand Jury Is Investigating The Case of Boucher's Check

KINGSTON
Evidence was presented to an Ulster County Grand Jury on Thursday in the case of Paul H. Boucher, former Ellenville village manager, involving the endorsement by him of an $11.63 village check. A report is expected to be returned to County Court about the middle of September.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph J. Trafficanti Jr. called several witnesses to testify, including Ellenville officials who had asked for the resignation of Boucher who quit the post on Monday. His resignation was accepted by the Village Board and it became effective immediately. Boucher has admitted endorsing the check originally payable to the State Employees Retirement System. That name was crossed out and Boucher's name inserted, officials said.

The ex-village manager has said that when the alteration of the check was revealed, that he thought the check was reimbursement for expenses, it was reported. He previously denied cashing the check.

After the village board conducted an investigation of the check incident and failed to determine the responsibility for cashing the check, the matter was turned over to State Police BCI officers on July 21. The grand jury probe resulted from information obtained by BCI investigator Thomas J. Searles of Ellenville.

Spain Frees Shokan Man

WASHINGTON, D. C.
John Carey of Shokan and four companions imprisoned by Spanish authorities for allegedly insulting the Spanish flag, were released today and will arrive in New York City Saturday, according to the office of Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

Carey, 22, and his four fellow New York Maritime Academy students were "apparently acquitted" of the charges, said the office. They will stay in a Madrid hotel tonight and are expected to arrive in New York sometime Saturday afternoon.

JOAN KENNEDY

A Kennedy Miscarriage

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's wife Joan has lost the baby she was expecting in February.

A spokesman at Cape Cod Hospital said today she was in good condition, resting comfortably and probably would remain in the hospital for a couple of days.

The spokesman said Mrs. Kennedy had undergone minor surgery which is usually routine in miscarriages.

Mrs. Kennedy, who will be 33 next Tuesday, was taken to the hospital shortly before 8 p. m. Thursday by her sisters-in-law Ethel Kennedy and Mrs. Stephen Smith.

The senator, who was on an overnight camping trip to Nantucket Island off the Massachusetts coast, flew to Hyannis when notified of his wife's miscarriage. He stayed at her bedside for some time.

The Kennedys have three children—Kara, 9, Edward M. Jr., 7, and Patrick Joseph, 1.

Mrs. Kennedy had miscarriages in May 1963 and May 1964.

Her latest pregnancy was made known about a month ago, the night Sen. Kennedy went on national television to comment on his conduct after the auto accident which took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne. An inquest into the accident is scheduled to open next Wednesday.

Mrs. Kennedy originally had planned to accompany her husband and the others on their camping trip Thursday, a family friend reported, but felt ill and decided to stay home.

Sable Lined Up for N.Y. Job

KINGSTON Sable, 337 Broadway, this city. A former Kingston man, Dr. Jack M. Sable, has been named by Gov. Rockefeller to head the newly created State Office of Consumer Affairs. He will help coordinate federal and state anti-poverty efforts in New York.

Sable, who now resides in the Bronx, was named to the $39,000-a-year post Thursday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sable.

An ordained rabbi, Sable was born in Kingston and attended Yeshiva University where he received his BS, MS and Ph.D. degrees.

A chaplain during the Korean conflict, Sable was a group worker in geriatrics at Paterson, N. J. Young Hebrew Men's Association, was the founder spiritual leader of the Riverdale Jewish Center and later became a member of the faculty of the Department of Urban Planning of Hunter College Graduate School.

He is married to the former Elissa Cynthia Glickman of San Francisco. They have three children, David, 15, Judith, 12 and Avi, 6.

In making the appointment and creating the new office, Gov. Rockefeller said, "The state's experience over the past several months has demonstrated the need for closer coordination among various programs offering services to the disadvantaged in both urban and rural areas. This new office is intended to bring together the widest range of state and federal programs designed to serve the disadvantaged and urban areas. Through this effort we intend to secure the greatest possible benefit from these programs."

Wants 'Hot Line'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., wants President Nixon to try to establish a "hot line" with mainland China, just as he has with Russia. Findley, member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, also said Nixon should promote U.S. China talks on arms limitations, exchange of ambassadors and negotiations for the release of prisoners. In a letter to Nixon, Findley said the United States should not work with Russia in seeking a military advantage over China and should not keep trying to keep China out of the United Nations.

Atomic Development Group Calls for Study

POUGHKEEPSIE—Empire State Atomic Development Association, Inc. (ESADA), a non-profit organization supported by the seven major investor-owned electric utilities serving New York State, announced today that it has joined with the General Electric Company and with other utility companies in a proposal to the United States Atomic Energy

Commission for a breeder reactor study. The proposal, submitted by General Electric in response to an AEC invitation to reactor manufacturing concerns, relates to the project definition phase of a two-phase AEC program for assistance in the construction and operation of a demonstration-scale nuclear power plant employing a liquid-metal-cooled fast breeder reactor. During this first phase, the information needed for planning the construction of a demonstration breeder reactor on a utility system will be collected and evaluated. It is expected that the project definition studies will take about one year to complete and that, subsequently, the AEC will select one of the studies as a basis for negotiating for the second phase—i.e., construction and operation of the actual demonstration plant.

The announcement was made by Ernest R. Acker, president of ESADA. Acker said that ESADA's participation in the proposed project definition study fits in with a fast breeder reactor development program initiated in 1967 under which ESADA is currently sponsoring component development work by General Electric. He stated that the final decision on whether or not to undertake construction of the first demonstration project will be carried out as a partnership effort of government and industry and with a broad base of utility participation and support. Acker noted that the member companies of ESADA are engaged at the present time in major expansion programs involving the construction of nuclear, fossil-fuel-fired, and hydro-electric generating plants. He stressed that these projects are of vital importance to the State's power economy and have priority on the financial, management and technical resources of the companies involved. Breeder reactor development is of comparatively long range importance; at the same time, because of the amount of work entailed in advancing breeder reactor technology to the point of commercial application, it is essential that utilities continue to take early initiatives in this field. ESADA was formed in 1960 and to date has appropriated approximately $25 million for research and development projects in the nuclear power field, including its current breeder reactor development program. The member companies of ESADA are: Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc., Long Island Lighting Company, New York State Electric and Gas Corporation, Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, Orange and Rockland Utilities, Inc., and Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation.

Seeks Board Job In Ulster Town

TOWN OF ULSTER—Frederick J. Wadnola, a Kingston school teacher, has announced his intentions to seek the Republican nomination for the post of councilman in the Town of Ulster.

Town of Ulster Republicans will caucus Tuesday night at 7 in the Chambers School. Wadnola is opposing incumbent councilman William Costello for the four-year post. The caucus is open to all enrolled Republicans in the Town of Ulster.

Wadnola, 30, is married to the former Cynthia Amato of Saugerties. He is the president-elect of the Ulster Kiwanis Club, a member of the Ulster Businessmen's Association, a member of the National Education Association and was president of the 1969 Heart Fund Drive in the Town of Ulster.

Wadnola, who teaches New York State history and government at the J. Watson Bailey School, is a graduate of Marist College in Poughkeepsie and a candidate in June of next year for a master's degree from the State University College at New Paltz. He is also a veteran of four years in the Navy.

The candidate cited the problems of sewage and water "in the fastest growing town in the county" as areas of personal concern. He called for "progressive government" for the town.

Prevents Mishap Of School Bus As Brakes Fail

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The driver of a bus with 50 Long Island high school students aboard prevented a serious accident Thursday by bumping into a second bus to slow his vehicle, whose brakes had failed.

The bus without brakes bumped its way down the hill and to a stop just short of a major downtown intersection. The incident happened on Aurora Hill, where motor vehicle accidents have claimed two lives this year and four since 1963.

Walter Delaney, 53, driver of the brakeless bus, was charged with operating a vehicle with unsafe brakes, police said. He is from Bayshore. The driver of the other bus, Walter Reiss, 65, of West Islip, was charged with operating a vehicle with unsafe tires. Both vehicles carried 50 students from Northport High School who had been attending a band clinic at Ithaca College.

Gov. Rockefeller asked the State Police and State Highway Department to investigate traffic conditions on the hill after a woman from Paris, France, was killed in an automobile accident there earlier this month.

Bicyclist Killed

CASTLE, N.Y. (AP) — John Duschon, 7, was struck and killed by an automobile Thursday as he pedaled his bicycle into the street from a driveway near his home in this Western New York village.

Wyoming County sheriff's deputies said the driver told them shrubbery obstructed his view of the driveway and he could not stop in time.

John was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Duschon of Route 19A, Castle.

Nixon Keeps Up Pressure

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon today continued a slow steady pressure on Hanoi to produce a dependable sign the North Vietnamese want peace.

What bothered the Chief Executive and his top advisers at the western White House was that they had no visible proof the North wanted to end the hostilities in Southeast Asia.

The Nixon pressure was evidenced in his delay in announcing of continued U.S. force reduction. He had planned originally to say something on this volatile subject before the end of August. According to White House officials, a determination beyond the 25,000 cut announced at Midway Island in early June would have to await Nixon's return to Washington Sept. 8.

Has Another Consideration

Also, Nixon had another international trading card which had to be considered—what the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong representatives do and say in Paris. Thus far, they have done little toward the sort of settlement the United States would accept.

The American message was coming through slowly: No pull-down without some commensurate action from the North.

The President will have several opportunities to lean on Hanoi in public statements in the near future.

—His appearance before the National Governors Conference in Denver, Colo., on Labor Day.

—At the Mexican border Sept. 8 when he makes a public appearance with Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz near Del Rio, Tex.

Returns to Washington

—When he returns to Washington the night of Sept. 8. Meantime, there would be a steady tattoo from San Clemente, sending what would try certain indicators show there to be this consistent message to is a beginning in the cooling off Hanoi: Slow down or face a heavier level of American combat performance.

Nixon met Thursday with his chief economic advisers and durable goods may be stabilized Ziegler said afterwards that ing as hopeful signs.

Ziegler stressed, however, that the administration does not expect an "immediate" response to efforts to halt rising prices by keeping the budget in the black and restraining federal spending.

But Well Spent

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Government-paid poor peoples' lawyers are winding up a three-week summer school that will cost the taxpayers more than $65,000.

The government antipoverty attorney who organized it said the money was being well spent.

Craig W. Christensen, director of the sponsoring National Institute for Education in Law and Poverty, said there had been hints that some of the approximately 90 lawyer delegates didn't spend as much time as they should have on business.

"No one has to be ashamed of the expenditure of any money here," he told the lawyers Thursday when they met with their boss, Terry F. Lenzner, newly appointed director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Lenzner came to the meeting to brief them on developments since he took office barely a month ago, and to reassure them of the Nixon administration's support for an expanded program.

"I categorically refute any inference there was any disruption" of the sessions by outside activities, Christensen said.

He referred to extracurricular action by 83 of the attorneys, who organized Poverty Lawyers for Effective Advocacy, Inc., designed to resist pressures against their legal services activities for the indigent.

Christensen said all meetings of the group were held after regular sessions, which usually ran from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Topics covered by consultants who acted as faculty for the summer school at this mountain resort included welfare, health, education and government services litigation.

Christensen said the money would come from his $696,000 budget at the institute, operated at the Northwestern University Law School in Chicago to provide continuing education and research for antipoverty lawyers.

School Test Nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration school desegregation policy—seen by critics as contradictory and confusing—comes to the test next week.

As pupils in 17 Southern and Border states return to fall classes, a controversy swirls on the direction of civil rights enforcement 15 years after the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the "separate but equal" concept.

"Pussyfooting" is the tag put on the Nixon policy by Clarence Mitchell Jr., Washington representative for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Retrogressive," said some dissident lawyers in the Justice Department's civil rights division.

"Politics," declared congressional liberals.

Nevertheless, by this time next week, government officials say almost twice the number of Negro youngsters will be attending previously all-white southern schools as in any previous year.

Figures alone are impressive. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says that of 4,476 once segregated districts, a total of 2,994 will open next week with completely unitary schools, unidentifiable by race.

Of the remainder, 369 are under court orders to desegregate and 1,107 are functioning under voluntary plans submitted to HEW for achieving total integration.

"This means," said an HEW spokesman Thursday, "that where one-fifth of the South's Negro youngsters were attending integrated white schools last year, one third will have the advantage of an integrated education during 1969-70."

Around the figures game, however, swirls the controversy.

The administration of former President Lyndon B. Johnson had set next month as the deadline for complete integration of once-segregated southern schools. Only a few exceptions were authorized.

Cool-Off Risks

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, admits that the Administration's anti-inflation policies do court the risk of some interim slack in the economy if the momentum of the "long-tolerated inflation" carries the price-cost level much higher. But he said this is not enough to bring wage-price controls.

The Administration is now relying on the pricing system, with all its imperfections, as less wasteful than "some sort of more direct brute force," McCracken said. It was his first defense of government inaction on some recent movements, particularly the industry-wide increase in steel prices.

McCracken reassured business that plans for new facilities, prices and wages based on the assumption of real growth in the future, are on a firm foundation. This is because the market for output in real terms can be reasonably expected to be "50 per cent larger a decade from now."

However, businesses which base new commitments on the belief that inflation is to continue will court casualties, he warned. The Administration is expecting its policies to reduce the rate of growth of money demand for output, to produce a comfortable surplus in the national budget and to continue restrictions on money and credit. These are the ingredients that are counted on to lower inflation.

The pty is that so many people are needlessly being hurt by these stringent economic policies. Too many can't or won't believe that inflation can be curbed. They go ahead borrowing and spending as if inflation will always be with us. Faith in the American capitalist system should turn them to cooperate in anti-inflation policies.

The Refugee Stream

Europe's refugee problem is not a matter of history. Each year 50,000 refugees flee their native lands, 28,000 of them East Europeans, according to the Inter-Governmental Committee for European Migration. Its headquarters are in Geneva, Switzerland, but Austria and Italy are favorite ports of entry. The United States, Israel, Australia, Canada and Sweden are the favorite goals of these refugees.

Despite public announcements to the contrary, some East European nations are lenient in allowing residents to depart, though under the guise of traveling to other East European countries. Migration officers are also cooperative. However, Poland announced that in September it will make the emigration of Jews more difficult. This will cut off a major source of refugees from Soviet bloc nations.

The United States absorbs 10,200 persons a year from Communist European countries and the Middle East, under their quota. Persons can also be admitted if they are eligible under the regular immigration figure of 170,000 a year, or if they are immediate relatives of persons living in the United States.

There is competition for professionals in all the countries that are favored by refugees. The United States gets its share because it is still the land of opportunity to peoples everywhere.

"I Think There's a Definite Slant to the Right!"

David Lawrence Says War's End Won't Add Money for Social Welfare

WASHINGTON — Most people have imagined that, if the Vietnam War came to an end, there would be many billions of dollars available each year for social welfare. It turns out that this is an illusion and that almost all of the money which would be saved by a termination of the conflict is already scheduled to be spent on existing projects.

The news came out on Monday after a three-hour conference by the President with his advisers, during which they discussed a special study which had been made. It indicated that not much of the 255 billion dollars a year being spent for the Vietnam War would be available for new welfare programs.

Daniel P. Moynihan, assistant to the President for urban affairs, talked with the press after the conference with the President, and declared that the study of future requirements as well as authorized appropriations indicated that budgets are going to be higher each year. He said it would not be realistic to expect that big sums would be available for any new projects because the funds would be almost entirely consumed by programs "already on the books." He referred to medicare, education, proposals to share revenues with the states, and various military expenditures for equipment or research now under way.

All this is a significant example of how little the public knows about the financial affairs of their government. Indeed, Congress is not too familiar with them, either. The reason is that, when an appropriation bill is passed, it doesn't always designate the year in which the funds may be spent, but merely authorizes the expenditures. In order to find out what the budgets might be for each of the next five years, a careful examination of the existing authorizations would be necessary as well as a projection as to when the actual expenditures will be made.

Congress, of course, can stop any authorizations and refuse to expend more money. But on medicare and education, the chances of such action being taken are remote. In fact, because of the increasing population, it is conceded that in many instances the amount of money needed will be even larger than what has already been authorized.

The state and city governments are frustrated by their lack of revenues to take care of hard-pressed areas. Members of Congress are urging "priorities," which merely means that some worthy projects would be set aside.

President Nixon — in outlining earlier this month his new program of manpower training and enlarged proposals for welfare together with a reduction in taxes for lower-income groups — mapped out a plan which each year will require more and more revenue.

One subject that is not too readily understood because of its technical nature is the research and development being done by the Defense Department with respect to future weapons and military contingencies. There are demands, of course, that some of these projects be curtailed, but here also the work done with the money already spent would be of little use unless the research were continued.

The trend probably will be toward a gradual increasing of tax rates in order to derive more revenue for the federal government. It would not be surprising if the tax surcharge or an equivalent were retained beyond this year, because it is not expected that the Vietnam War will be ended in 1970. The expense of maintaining a substantial force in Vietnam will probably be large for another two or three years.

Those members of Congress who have been anticipating that the ending of the Vietnam War would produce a surplus to finance various domestic projects are calling Mr. Moynihan's report on the special study a piece of "bad news." But as the gross national product increases and industry is given incentives to expand its facilities, the government may be able to collect higher and higher revenue in the ensuing years.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He was a precise man, this Emmett Toldano. He led the orderly life, with his clothing hung properly in the closet, the shoes on the floor in neat pairs, the bills paid promptly, and children in bed at the stroke of nine. He was a husky, muscular man with a small monk's cowl on the crown of his head, a tribute to 40 years of thinking.

He sat at his desk at home, a shaded lamp over the ledger, ignoring the few observations made by his wife. She was weaving an afghan in blue and red, and Millie could do this while her mind wandered over many subjects. Emmett turned the ledger to the proper date: Monday, December 20th, 1999.

His pen made entries and his jaw flexed with frustration as he added the figures. At one time, he stopped and clasped his hands behind his head. "We just can't, that's all." For once, Millie said the wrong thing: "Why?"

"Why?" he said sarcastically. "You're asking me why? I'll tell you why. As a plasterer, I earn 10 dollars an hour, that's why. It comes to $400 a week. I don't have enough seniority to work Saturdays and Sundays to get some double time."

"My father," Millie said, "got a hundred a week and raised a family of six children." Emmett sighed and returned to his figures. "Your old man didn't pay $450 a month for a two-bedroom apartment. Your old man never shelled out six dollars a pound for chuck steak. Your old man—"

"Okay," Millie said. "Okay." She was becoming accustomed to the monthly frustration of watching him add up bills. Every year, commodities cost more. "The children need school shoes," she said timidly.

Emmett looked up from the ledger. "That's what they're getting for Christmas," he said. "We can't afford toys, or dolls. The more I make, the deeper we go into hock."

"I know a place where they have a sale — $35 a pair," she said. He shook his head. "Get them," he snarled. "For three children, it comes to $105. Make sure they're sturdy. Our kids eat shoes."

He removed the monthly bills from a spiked spindle one by one. Milk cost 75 cents a quart; bread 60 cents a loaf. His mood darkened. "In case you don't know it," he said, "this is the end of the fiscal year. You've heard of something called income tax. I'm sure. This year I did without a vacation and my income adds up to $20,800. It's enough to feed a man and wife, but not enough for children."

"Don't blame the kids," she said sadly. "I scribble in every way possible. I haven't even phoned my sister in Wichita, and yet the phone bill is 40 odd dollars. This cheap plaid couch came to $800, and the seams are coming apart."

Emmett didn't answer. He was trying to figure 25 per cent for income tax, even with all the real and fake deductions he had. City sales tax was 6 per cent; the interest on a personal loan was 12 per cent, and he had been forced to give the bank two extra points under the table.

"No, no, NO!" he shouted, slamming the pen on the desk. Millie clucked her tongue. "You'll awaken the children." "The hell with the children!" he shouted, then he turned and apologized. "I didn't mean that," he said. "I'm just so damned far behind the eight ball, Millie."

"No worse than anybody else," she said. "Amy Chelton was telling me that the little sports car they bought is absolutely rock bottom, but is cost $4,800 without any extras." Emmett shook his head. "Thank God our old bus is holding up." He knocked on wood. "Here we are at the turn of the 21st century and we haven't got a quarter to show for it."

Millie chuckled. "In the old days, Dad used to say he didn't have a dime to show for it. Then the government stopped minting pennies and nickels because they were worthless." "You want to know something?" he said. "They still mint dimes, but they're made of aluminum. And I haven't seen one in weeks."

"What could you buy with it?" Millie said. "Two loose cigarettes? I meant to tell you, when I got gas for the car I handed the boy a quarter tip and he handed it back." Emmett grunted and went back to his work.

Emmett worked out a trial balance and found that he had a net loss for the month of $180. "I suppose," he said softly, "that I should get some consolation from the fact that the government now owes $600 billion dollars. But I don't. Our dear, dear President, Robert Kennedy Jr., promised a lot of economy." Millie laughed heartily. "You mustn't believe all those campaign promises. He doesn't even turn the White House lights out at night."

Drew Pearson Says Russians Are Letting Olive Branch Offered by Nixon Wilt

WASHINGTON — The olive branch that President Nixon is showing signs of wilt. Soviet leaders have been careful not to spurn the drooping peace sprig, but neither have they grasped it.

The diplomats of both countries still pay lip service to Soviet-American cooperation. They continue to meet informally and to sound out one another about settling our differences.

In Bucharest earlier this month, President Nixon told Soviet Ambassador Alexander Basov: "I hope my next journey will be to Moscow." But the President has received no invitation to Moscow, and the Kremlin has shown no eagerness to open negotiations.

Party boss Leonid Brezhnev, for example, sent written assurances to Egypt's President Nasser that Russia would be faithful to the Arab cause at the same time that Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko talked to Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco in Moscow about restraining the Arabs and easing the Middle East crisis. The Kremlin has held back, too, from the disarmament table where Russian and American negotiators were supposed to talk about controlling strategic arms. Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin has also extended his stay in Moscow. This has delayed any resumption of the friendly, informal exchanges between the Soviet ambassador and Secretary of State Bill Rogers.

Soviet ardor for President Nixon has been cooled by two American moves:

1. Soviet leaders were annoyed with Nixon for visiting Romania at a time when the Kremlin is trying to tighten its hold on the satellites. The annoyance changed to alarm when Nixon received the warmest welcome ever accorded a foreign visitor since the communist takeover. This was a signal to all satellite leaders that they could gain popularity with their people by taking a more pro-American line. To dampen the effect of the Nixon visit, the Kremlin sent Konstantin Katushev, a master of the veiled threat, to Bucharest to attend the Romanian Party Congress. This same Katushev was a key figure in the Soviet crackdown on Czechoslovakia when Czech leaders became too independent. In two long huddles with Romanian leader Nicolae Ceausescu, Katushev warned him against any more direct dealings with the United States.

2. The Kremlin was perturbed over President Nixon's friendly overtures to Peking at the same time that Russians and Chinese were clashing along the Sinking border. No problem is more sensitive inside the Kremlin right now than the Chinese question. The American gestures to Red China, therefore, are considered unfriendly to Russia. Soviet leaders are understandably nervous over the possibility that China and the U.S. some day might join forces against Russia.

On the government level, the Soviets have been careful not to show any outward hostility toward the U.S. Such government leaders as Premier Alexei Kosygin and Foreign Minister Gromyko have continued to encourage friendly relations with the United States. But the party bosses, who manipulate the strings, haven't attempted to disguise their disapproval of the U.S. Brezhnev, for instance, has denounced the U.S. at the same time that Kosygin has expressed friendship.

Some Kremlinologists believe this indicates a split in the Soviet leadership. Others think it is a deliberate, two-faced policy — the official face turned toward the outside world, the party face toward the inner communist world.

Secrecy and Censorship
In disregard of President Nixon's open-administration policy, Food and Drug Commissioner Herbert Ley, Jr., has imposed a subtle censorship upon his subordinates.

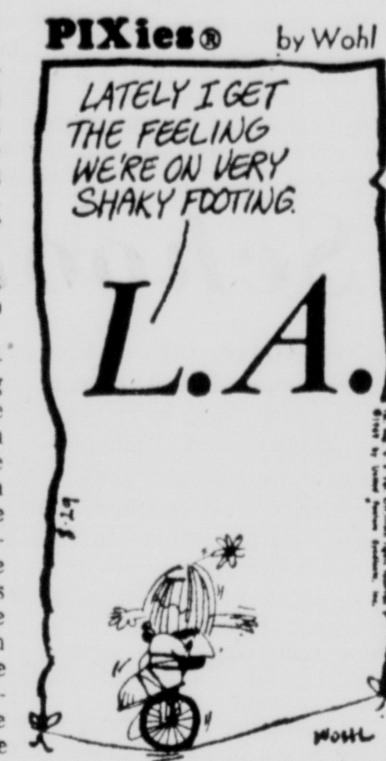

He has ordered them to report all "policy conversations" with reporters to Joshua B. Zatman, the unofficial censor, who is supposed to determine whether the conversations "might have an impact on the department's operations."

The effect is to prohibit FDA officials from talking to reporters about anything that doesn't have Ley's approval. The new order went out this month to "all assistant and associate commissioners, district directors and division directors" in the form of a private memo on the subject: "Unauthorized release of information."

"To help keep top management informed of news developments involving not only FDA but the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare," Ley instructed, "I am requesting that you report all policy conversations with communications media representatives to Mr. Joshua B. Zatman."

"Mr. Zatman will then determine whether the conversation involves information which might have an impact on the department's operations. If he feels such impact is in prospect, he will inform Mr. Thomas F. Williams, Director of Public Affairs."

"I would appreciate your circulating these instructions to members of your staff."

State Tax Department Delay In Cashing Checks Is Costly

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — At a time when both borrowers and lenders are worried about so-called "expensive money," can the New York State government afford "dead money"?

The question arises from the curiosity of a taxpayer and has turned out to be something of an embarrassment to the State Tax Department.

It seems that, because of slowness in cashing checks mailed by income taxpayers, hundreds of millions of dollars worth of "paper" languish uncollected in the department's coffers each year for periods of up to four weeks.

At the same time, while waiting for cash to pour into the treasury, the state comptroller has been forced to borrow large sums of money — so he can make state-aid payments on time. The state has had to pay high interest rates for these borrowings.

This year, for example, the comptroller has borrowed $825 million in this manner, and the gross interest cost to the state is estimated at $25 million.

The question is — could the state save at least part of this cost, thus reducing the expense of government, by turning the Tax Department's "dead money" into usable cash a lot sooner? The answer seems to be yes.

The situation came to light when the curious taxpayer began examining checks he had sent to the department as quarterly payments on his state income tax.

Besides the annual April 15 filing, quarterly estimates and payments are required when a taxpayer has significant income not covered by withholding — such as earnings from self-employment or rent or stock dividends.

The taxpayer observed — as perhaps many others have — that, after he mailed his checks, up to four weeks elapsed before they were returned to his bank and charged against his account. By contrast, the U.S. Internal Revenue Service cashed similar checks within a few days.

He expected some delays during the annual April 15 crush. But why did the state agency take so long with the quarterly checks? And who was getting use of the money represented by his check while it was tied up?

The taxpayer reasoned that, since numerous other taxpayers must have had the same experience, many millions of dollars could be involved. In these days of soaring interest rates, it seemed imprudent to him that large sums should be kept in limbo.

Sure enough, the Tax Department acknowledged that nearly half a million taxpayers file quarterly estimates and pay about $600 million in this fashion. It takes as long as four weeks to cash their checks.

The state comptroller's office agreed that it could reduce the amount of temporary borrowings if more cash were available when needed.

Moreover, a spokesman pointed out that the policy was to invest any cash that later turned up and to use the earnings to help offset the cost of "quicky" borrowings. The state earned $1.8 million that way last year. Thus, he said, the sooner that tax revenues were converted into cash, the more the state would benefit.

Barking Up the Wrong Tree?

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It may be that President Nixon's men are off on the wrong track in their attempts to cool inflation.

They've assumed that if the proper economic screws can be tightened, interest rates raised, industrial expansion cut, demand reduced one way or another, then prices will come down.

Traditionally, this reasoning has held true when the inflation was the result of such heavy buying that the nation's production capacity has been strained to the limit. But this is not true today.

Most economists this reporter has interviewed, whether in government, in private research organizations or as advisers to major business firms, believe the present inflationary spurt was indeed set off by the increase in demand which accompanied the war in Vietnam. But there is evidence that today's continuing price rises are not so caused.

Industry is not operating at the near-capacity levels of some time back. Profits are declining.

The economy has been cooled so markedly the Gross National Product is creeping upward at a dangerously slow pace.

Unemployment is growing. The signs point to steady upward gains in unemployment that will reach politically unacceptable levels by middle or late 1970.

Yet inflation continues to grow.

Analysis of the data shows that the gains continue heaviest in the services, in trade, construction, maintenance and medical care, rather than in manufacturing, and that the economic measures used to bring an economic slowdown have themselves increased the cost of living appreciably. Higher interest charges, for example, are passed on to the consumer.

Economists in and out of the government this reporter has talked to say today's inflation is due not to heavy demand but to rising costs. Most point to rapid wage increases over the past several years. But it is to be noted that the data indicates that it is not rising labor costs in manufacturing that have brought this pressure on prices for, in large part, these have been compensated for by increased automation. It is rather the heavy increases in labor costs in the services, where the introduction of labor-saving devices has been exceedingly slow.

The administration's anti-inflation program has not attacked these costs.

Worse yet, the administration-invoked economic slowdown aimed at reducing demand seems to be encouraging a slowdown in the very heavy continuing investment in computerization, automation and other modernization essential to holding prices down as labor costs rise.

Thus the anti-inflation drive is encouraging future price rises. And making the U.S. less competitive with foreign industry.

Data on this score is already ominous. Of late, there has been a marked decline in labor productivity — not just a slowdown in the rate at which productivity is increasing — but an actual decline in output per man.

Because this means an increase in costs, it will mean higher prices.

An Arab Summit in the Works

CAIRO (UPI)—A summit conference of Israel's most militant Arab foes—Egypt, Jordan, Iraq and Syria—will soon be convened in Cairo to coordinate Middle East military strategy, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

Al-Ahram said the four-nation summit would be held despite Arab League preference for an all-Moslem summit, which would include chiefs of state from about 40 nations, many of them moderate and pro-Western. A separate statement by Al-Ahram Editor Mohamed Hassanin Haikal a close confidant of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, indicated Egypt will not consider resuming diplomatic relations with the United States while American arms flow to Israel.

Al-Ahram's comment on the prospective four-nation summit coincided with the scheduled departure of King Hussein of Jordan for Saudi Arabia and Cairo.

Hussein was expected to discuss with Saudi Arabia's King Faisal his preference for an Arabs-only summit and to further this discussion Saturday with Nasser, who originated the Arab summit idea.

It was Faisal who first proposed a summit of all Moslem nations as an alternative strategy to the limited Arab summit. His ambassador advanced the all-Moslem summit proposal successfully at this week's Arab League conference in Cairo.

Al-Ahram said the summit conference of Nasser, Hussein, Syria's Premier Nouraddin al-Atassi and Iraq's President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr would open in the near future.

It would discuss "highly important military issues" and map "joint plans for dealing with present and future developments in all fields," Al-Ahram said.

Haikal disclosed what he said was a detail of the latest U.S. peace plan for the Middle East to illustrate Egypt's anger with Washington and its current preference for Moscow.

"Just to show how bad these proposals were," Haikal said, "It is enough to say they included a suggestion of stationing a joint Egyptian-Israeli force at Sharm el-Sheikh to ensure freedom of navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba."

Sharm el-Sheikh, at the southern tip of Israeli-occupied Sinai, commands the waterway approach to Israel's only southern port, Aqaba. Egypt's closing these approachways was a factor in the 1967 Middle East War.

Inquest Appeal Studied

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Lawyers for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and other witnesses at the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne studied the possibility today of appealing a ruling denying their clients the rights given criminal defendants.

They could appeal to the U.S. District Court, raising constitutional issues, or challenge the inquest law in Massachusetts Superior Court on the grounds it is outdated.

Miss Kopechne died July 18 when a car driven by Kennedy went off a narrow bridge into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island across a small bay from Martha's Vineyard.

District Court Judge James A. Boyle ruled Thursday that the inquest would be more like criminal proceedings and that those who testify should therefore be allowed counsel at their side "for the sole purpose

It's Absurd, Cuba Howls

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Cuba has branded as false and absurd U.S. expulsion of two members of its mission to the United Nations.

In a protest to Secretary General Thant signed by Foreign Minister Raul Roa, Cuba said Thursday U.N. headquarters could function better if moved to some other country.

Commenting on charges of espionage and security violations raised by the United States this month against diplomats Azaro Espinosa Bonet and Alberto Boza Hidalgo, Roa said:

"It is not the policy of the government of Cuba to assign to its permanent mission to the U.N. activities that would depart from the objectives of the U.N."

MRS. BULL AFTER HER ORDEAL
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

This Elevator A Real Lemon

CHICAGO (UPI)—A socialite Bauer, heard the furnace when her laundress came, Tuesday after conferring with the other servants who had failed to gain admittance. Cecchi returned to the house, vacation Monday, came to the house and attempted to enter through a side door, using his key. He found the door chained. Mrs. Bull rang the alarm bell into it. She drank the few drops.

Mrs. Rosemary Bauer Bull, 58, charged the Otis Elevator Co. with negligence in maintaining the elevator in her home.

Mrs. Bull's ordeal in the barely two feet square elevator began at 5 p.m. Thursday July 10.

"I was boiling tea on the upper floor of the four-story house and took the elevator down to get a lemon," she said. "I pay $600 a year for elevator maintenance from Otis, I had complained about noises in the elevator and the repairman had come twice on the day before to check it," she said.

The elevator stuck between the first and second floors.

Mrs. Bull was alone in the house. Her husband is dead. The elevator has no escape hatch.

Mrs. Bull rang the emergency alarm bell but no one could hear.

This began 113 hours without food or water, imprisoned in a metal cell too small to lie down in. "It was so uncomfortable. It was hard to stay in one position more than 15 minutes at a time," she said.

The next day, Mrs. Bull, daughter of the late Republican National Committeewoman Mrs. Bertha

Anita Assures Rocky

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller toured the New York State Fair Thursday and told a crowd gathered around the Entertainment Center stage that the United States could not ignore those who do not share in the country's prosperity.

Thursday was governor's day at the fair and the second day Rockefeller attended.

The governor breakfasted in Syracuse with several state legislators, then spoke to a small gathering at Syracuse university where he proclaimed 1969 as College Football Centennial Year in the state.

Rockefeller sat with the crowd listening to entertainer Anita Bryant sing before he spoke. At one point, Miss Bryant looked at the governor as she unfasted her gown and said: "Now don't get nervous, governor."

She allowed the dress to fall to the floor as the governor put on his eyeglasses. Under the gown was a short-skirted western outfit which complemented her next song, a western number.

Later Rockefeller told the large crowd that the nation could not ignore the "inexcusable existence of hunger, or at least poor nutrition, found among too many people in these United States."

He pointed out that welfare programs such as his Food on the Table program, benefit the many workers engaged in food processing as well as the needy.

He said that in the chain of events that brings food from the farm to the table benefits each person along the way.

Rockefeller said he was concerned about new welfare programs proposed by Pres. Nixon, since he had thought they would eliminate payments to families with children. He said he has since been assured by a White House aide that the food stamp program is in no immediate danger.

Rockefeller seemed to enjoy himself most of the day. Everywhere he went, people thrust hands at him. He signed numerous autographs and greeted hundreds of children.

Hijack 2 Jets, One to Tel Aviv Another to Cuba

ROME (UPI)—A Trans World Airlines jet with 113 persons aboard was hijacked today on a flight from Rome to Athens, a TWA spokesman said. The plane, TWA Flight 840, was en route from Miami to New Orleans when the hijacking took place. The Boeing 727 jet was over the Aegean Sea when the hijacking took place. The plane carried 49 passengers and a crew of six. There was no immediate word as to the identity of the hijacker. Confrontation At Grant Park Peaceful Today

CHICAGO (UPI)—The new left faithful and some of their erstwhile foes confronted each other again on the first anniversary of the "Battle of Grant Park" Thursday night. There was little fanfare and no fighting. Long hair and bare feet was the rule on the one side, brass buttons and brogans on the other at the Grant Park bandshell.

There was Mark Rudd of Columbia University riot fame; Rennie Davis of North Vietnam prisoner-of-war-escort fame; and Deputy Chief of patrol James J. Riordan of tear gas fame.

There was even a traveling evangelist, Paul Temple of Los Angeles, who saw the crowd and used the occasion to get in a few words about a different kind of crusade.

The closest thing to an incident was a brief counter demonstration by 15 American Nazis, prudently held across the street.

And when an unidentified man rushed onto the stage to urge the crowd to remain beyond the 11 p.m. park closing deadline—which sparked last year's clashes between police and protesters—the crowd ignored him and quietly drifted away.

DuMond to Seek Town Justice Post in Hurley

HURLEY — C. H. DuMond of Hurley has announced he will enter the Republican Town Caucus in Hurley on Sept. 2 to seek nomination for the post of town justice. DuMond, a town constable for 10 years and director of the constabulary for eight years, is a lifelong resident of Hurley. He is a past president of the Town's Republican Club and is currently vice-president.

DuMond also is a member of Hurley Lions Club, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, chief of the Ulster County Constables Association and a member of the National Sheriffs' Association. He served with the U. S. Army in World War II and is presently employed as a sales representative of an industrial supply house in Newburgh. DuMond and his wife, Aiyce, own and operate the Colonial Legal Service Agency in Hurley.

McCann Promoted

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — National Guard Col. John J. McCann, retired in 1967 but recalled to active duty, was promoted Thursday to the rank of Brigadier General by Gov. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller said the general would be placed on the retired list Monday. McCann, who lives in Manhattan, served in the Judge Advocate's Department during much of his 27 years with the state guard.

Rondout...

Residents did not know their lines were against the law, and noted the Corps' plan would also be "illegal" in a technical sense.

When the Corps began to install a dike along the creek as it passes Main Street, the old systems were uprooted and are to be channeled into "headers," that will take sewage from the homes through the dike and into the creek.

"It is my considered opinion that the installation of the 'headers' at this time is not in accordance with basic, sound engineering," said Thomas F. Perna of the Pure Waters Authority in a letter to the mayor. He added that the plan "would only result in a waste of public spending and possibly assist in defeating the proposed sewer project" of the village and town. The Canal Society president said in letters to both Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and Corps headquarters in New York City "That this may have been going on for the last hundred years or so is no excuse. We've got to start somewhere; our federal policy is for clean water and our Corps of Engineers do not have to acquiesce in such an abomination."

Sturges told the Corps: "We ask that you reverse your stand immediately" and called on Congress Fish to support Mayor Curran's campaign to stop the Corps plan and back his proposed district sewer system.

Poultry Meat In Hotdogs Is New Prospect

WASHINGTON (UPI) — That hotdog you bite into may soon have up to 15 per cent chicken in it.

Meat packers who currently put poultry meat in sausages must disclose this by using a special, prominently displayed product name, such as "chicken-endog" or "frankfurter with chicken."

But the Nixon administration decided Thursday to permit the use of up to 15 per cent chicken without the special labeling.

One factor in chicken industry pressure for the decision was a desire to make a bigger market for deboned meat from chicken backs and necks.

The Agriculture Department, which announced the decision, said the rules would take effect early in November. They will apply to the use of chicken and other poultry in federally inspected cooked sausages such as frankfurters, knockwurst and bologna.

Will Hold Hearings

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee on freedom of information, says he will hold hearings on alleged violations of the Freedom of Information Act "at any time I have complaints before me." Moss said he had received complaints from Ralph Nader's task force but "all of them have been resolved except one." Nader told Washington newsmen Tuesday his study groups found government officials "systematically and routinely" violate the Freedom of Information Act.

Glasco School Plan— Departmentalization

SAUGERTIES: Glasco School Principal, Norman W. Bolinder, has announced plans for a semi-departmentalized program for grades four, five and six when school begins on Wednesday.

In this type of program, each teacher teaches a particular subject to all pupils of that grade—one in which he has a special interest, competency, or background. Grade four teachers and subject area include: Mrs. Muriel Ferraro, social studies; Mrs. Shirley Carpenter, mathematics; Miss Virginia Palumbo, science. Each teacher will be responsible for teaching reading and language arts.

Grade five teachers and subject area include: Mrs. Anita Milikofsky, social studies; Mrs. Marion Piastro, science; Mr. Richard Curtis, language arts. Each teacher will be responsible for teaching reading and mathematics.

Grade six teachers and subject area include: Mrs. Alice O'Leary, language arts; Bernard Rinaldi, social studies; Michael Platek, mathematics. Each teacher will be responsible for teaching reading and science.

Grade three teachers have planned an organizational change involving the teaching of reading. All reading skill instruction will be scheduled during the same time period. Pupils will be grouped according to achievement test results, with teacher observation and judgment as a final determining factor. This enables each child to work in a reading class at his achievement level and to be involved in reading activities which meet his special needs.

At the designated time for reading skill instruction, pupils will move to one of the three different reading stations. Each of the groups will be given concentrated attention, with particular emphasis on those areas of the reading process most needed by a specific group.

Grade three teachers are Miss Beverly Andrew, Mrs. Carolyn VanGaasbeck, and Mrs. Dorothy Lacey. Plans are being formulated to possibly extend this program into grades one and two as the school year progresses. Grade two teachers are planning a modified team teaching program in the areas of science and social studies. Teachers at this level include Mrs. Sandra Stein, Mrs. Katherine Wells, Mrs. Evelyn Francello, and Mrs. Ingrid Sternberg.

The Glasco School staff is eagerly awaiting the completion of the library. An elementary school library—or materials resource center—is more than a repository of books. It is planned to have pupils go to the center for research and study, using many different instructional media and learning resources which will be available.

These will include: reference books, filmstrips, film loops, transparencies, records, tapes, charts, slides, and other visual aids. A child may work on something required by a teacher, or may seek additional knowledge on a subject of particular interest to him. Individual study carrels will be available for pupil use.

Hooks Auxiliary Meets Thursday

SAUGERTIES: Washington Hook and Ladder Co. Auxiliary of Saugerties will resume its regular meetings Thursday 7:30 p. m. in the company rooms of the municipal building.

The Refreshments Committee for September will include Gladys Amend, Carol Amend and Joan Arnold. Jeannie Amend will bring the special award for the meeting.

It is planned to have a social evening at the next meeting.

Supervisor Candidate Again

Milton Houst, incumbent supervisor of the Town of Woodstock, has announced his intention to seek a second term at the forthcoming Republican caucus on Thursday Sept. 4.

Houst says that although many great strides have been made during his administration, he would like to continue his planned program to make Woodstock an even better place to live and work, to its conclusion.

Speaking of his accomplishments, Houst says that as supervisor, he instituted major improvements in the Police Department including two radio controlled patrol cars in direct contact with the Sheriff's Department as well as increasing its force in numbers and effectiveness. His programs with respect to fire protection and town lighting are showing rapid progress. In addition, he states he has demonstrated his positive action as a leader in the sanitary land fill operation.

Houst a resident of Woodstock for 40 years has served on the town board as councilman and town justice, has managed a retail business and is a 27 year

Senior Citizens Club Activities

SAUGERTIES: be discussed during the business session and a social evening will be held. Mr. and Mr. Joseph Gardner will serve as the Refreshment Committee.

Senior Citizens Club of Saugerties reported on its bus trip last week to Taconic State Park and attendance Saturday night at the Miss Ulster County Pageant in Saugerties High School.

Club President Mrs. Jane Simon noted that the bus was provided by Ulster County Community Action Inc.

She reported that club members were able to witness the crowning of Ruth McGeeney of Hurley as Miss Ulster County.

Mrs. Simon reminded the members that the next meeting will be held Thursday 1 p. m. at the Dutch Arms Chapel of Saugerties Reformed Church.

Boy in Coma 124 Days With Rabies, Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Little Tommy Buchmann, who clung to life for a record 124 days while in a coma with rabies, died today at University Hospital, two days after his third birthday.

His heart stopped at 4:30 a.m. He had never regained consciousness since he went into a deep coma and was placed on a respirator on April 27.

Medical officials at the hospital said he had survived longer than anyone else known to have contacted rabies.

Tommy was playing in the back yard April 1 when his mother, washing dishes in the kitchen just a few steps away, heard Tommy scream.

A wild bobcat had attacked, clamping the lad and biting him on the leg, shoulder and the base of the skull, Mrs. Buchmann drove the bobcat off.

Tommy began a series of rabies shots—he had 18—but still developed the dread sickness.

SEIZED BY FBI — The FBI announced in Washington Thursday the arrest of reputed Cosa Nostra leader Angelo DeCarlo at St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, N. J., where he is recuperating from surgery. DeCarlo is one of four New Jersey men arrested by the FBI on charges of loan sharking as part of what the FBI describes as "the continuing war on the Cosa Nostra." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Off Limits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department may place several Mexican cities off limits for American military personnel because of drug traffic. A Pentagon spokesman said: "The Department of Defense is increasingly concerned about the rapidly growing traffic in narcotics, marijuana and dangerous drugs across the Mexican border. Accordingly, it is giving consideration to declaring 'off limits' several Mexican border cities for indefinite periods of time."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened firm today in moderate turnover.

There appeared to be little in the news budget to inspire traders. The fact that many investors retired to the sidelines Thursday largely reflected traditional pre-Labor Day caution. Much of the same is expected today, although Wall Street will be keeping a close eye on both the economic situation and Vietnam.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator was up 0.40 per cent on 353 issues crossing the tape. There were 174 advances and 88 declines.

Bethlehem Steel held unchanged at 29 1/4, while U.S. Steel at 37 1/4 also was unchanged.

In the chemicals, Eastman Kodak dipped 1/4 to 75 1/4, with Du Pont down 1/4 to 125 1/4. Dow gained 3/4 to 69 1/4.

National Cash Register rose 3/4 to 134 1/4 among the electronics, with General Electric up 1/4 to 84. Sperry Rand 3/4 to 44 1/4. Litton 1/4 to 48 and Control Data 3/4 to 151 1/4.

Natamox fell 1/4 to 95 1/4 in the oils, but Shell added 1/4 to 55 1/4. Standard of California 1/4 to 59 1/4. Standard of Ohio 1/4 to 114 1/4, and Cities Service 1/4 to 56 1/4.

General Motors picked up 1/4 to 72 1/4, while Chrysler gained 3/4 to 38 3/4.

Quotations by Hornblower & Weeks, Hemphill, Noyes, members of the New York Stock Exchange. Kingston representatives, Paul Coon, David Hoffman and Theodore Peck.

Three Language Courses Listed At Bard College

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON—Basic Russian and Spanish and intermediate German are being offered as part of the Bard College program of continuing education this fall.

German, taught by Mrs. Elizabeth Bertelsmann, will meet on Monday evenings, starting on September 8, from 7:30 to 9:30. Mrs. Bertelsmann has an MS from Columbia and is a PhD candidate at the University of Munich, Germany, and her course, which requires some knowledge of German, is designed to introduce the student to understanding, speaking and reading German.

Russian will be taught by Michael Minihan, assistant professor of languages and literature at Bard, the translator of Konstantin Mochulsky's "Dostoevsky: His Life and Work." Professor Minihan will emphasize speaking, understanding and reading Russian with some ease and accuracy, and will use simple literary texts and taped materials in the college's Language Laboratory. The class will meet on Tuesdays, starting September 9, at 7:30.

Professor William Frauenfelder will offer either Basic Spanish, or an Introduction to Spanish—its language, country, people, and culture. Professor Frauenfelder, who taught at Bard from 1934 to 1957, returns to the college this year after serving as director of the USIS Bi-National Cultural Centers in Argentina, Bolivia and Spain. His course will meet at 7:30 on Wednesday evenings, starting September 10.

Each course carries 2 credits.

READING GAME—First place winners in the Town of Ulster Library summer reading game receive awards at party Thursday. Mrs. George Schmidt, assistant librarian presents awards to (L-R) Robin Young, grades 3 and 4; Darlene Kilburn, grades five and six and Sharon Barten, grade seven. William Johnson took first place in the grades one and two category. Second place winners were Frank Spadafora, grades one and two; Daniel Kilburn, grades three and four, and Jeffrey Bisely grades five and six. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Modern French Theater Course Slated at Bard

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON—The evening course at the college will study the development of modern French drama from the Theatre Libre to the Theatre de l'Absurd. There will be close readings of plays representative of the various movements chosen from the works of Jarry, Cocteau, Giraudoux, Sartre, Genet, Ionesco, Beckett and others. Their philosophy, significance, and contribution to the intellectual and social climate of the 20th century will be considered.

The class will meet on Tuesday evening, at 7:30. The course will be taught by Yuri Karageorge, assistant professor of languages at Bard College, who will offer a two-credit course in Modern French Theatre this fall as part of the college's program of continuing education.

Professor Karageorge holds a B. es Lettres and a Diplome from the University of Paris, and an MA from New York University. He is the author of "Le Theatre De Samuel Beckett," and has taught at NYU, Fordham and the State University College at New Paltz.

License Extension

All drivers licenses and registrations that expire Aug. 31 are valid until midnight Sept. 2 according to announcement made today by Albert Spada, Ulster County Clerk. The extension has been granted due to the expiration date falling on a Sunday, followed by the Labor Day holiday on Monday.

It Was Toasts, Checks For Bernadette Devlin

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bernadette Devlin, the fiery advocate of Irish unity, crusaded over wooden crates and cocktails Thursday while Berkeley's militants toasted her with clenched fists and union leaders pulled-out their checkbooks. "I am here in this country on a campaign to raise money for suffering people, and for no other reason," Miss Devlin, the youngest member of the British parliament, said upon her arrival at San Francisco International Airport. "Nationality and religious questions are irrelevant to the fact that people are suffering and I am acting on the principle that suffering is helping anyone who needs it."

When she stepped from the plane in a gray miniskirt the mood of the day was set—she was given a clutch of violets and a bouquet of roses by the members of an Irish delegation and a $1,000 check for her relief fund from the San Francisco Carpenters Union.

Miss Devlin hopes to raise $1 million in her appearances in the United States. She said the funds will be turned over to the Irish Civil Rights Association for the people in Northern Ireland left homeless and jobless by bloody conflicts there.

"I can guarantee that the money will not be used for weapons," she said, "or for Irish to fight their fellow Irish."

Signs Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has signed a bill tightening Civil Aeronautics Board control over acquisition of airlines. Under the law, CAB approval will be required for acquisition of 10 per cent of any class of stock of an airline. It also requires anyone owning more than 5 per cent of an airline's stock to report a description of such ownership annually with the CAB.

99's Chapter Poker Run Set For September 6

RED HOOK

A "poker run," involving an airport hop around Hudson Valley area ports, is in the offing for members of the Hudson Valley Chapter of the 99's.

This organization of women pilots will sponsor the poker run Sept. 6, with a rain date of Sept. 7.

Entry blanks may be obtained at Orange County Airport, Montgomery; Sky Acres, Millbrook; Columbia County Airport, Hudson; Schenectady County Airport; and Skypark, Red Hook.

Pilots may begin at 10 a.m. from any of the airports, but must finish at Skypark by 3:15 p.m.

Rules state that entrants need not pilot their own planes. Poker players may play as many hands as they wish, and prizes will be awarded for the best and worst hands.

The 99's sponsor the "Powder Puff Derby" race every year. Prospective members must be licensed pilots. The first anniversary of the Hudson Valley Chapter will be in October. Its membership has risen from five women to 21 in that short period.

Resume Search For Body in Hudson River

FISHKILL

State police scuba divers today resumed search of the Hudson River off Bannerman's Island south of here for the body of Kenneth Michael Kasner, 19, of the Bronx, who drowned while swimming. Lt. Samuel Crodeille and Sgt. John Conway are in charge of the operations.

Kasner and Harold Bernard Schwartz, 20, also of the Bronx, drowned Wednesday afternoon while attempting to swim from the east shore to the island. A third Bronx man, 20-year-old Eric Steven Bachrach managed to return to shore and notify authorities.

Dr. S. M. Babcock perfected the test for fat content of milk and cream in 1890.

Pleads Guilty On Gambling Count, Pays Fine

KINGSTON Herbert F. Fitzgerald, 33, of 60 Meadow Street, was arrested early Thursday afternoon by detectives on a charge of possessing gambling records. He later appeared before Special City Judge George A. Beck and paid a fine of $100 after pleading guilty.

Detective Sgt. Charles McCullough said Fitzgerald was picked up on Albany Avenue at Clinton Avenue on a search warrant issued in City Court. The man was specifically accused of possessing policy number slips.

Give CIA Clean Bill In Green Beret Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is given a clean bill in the Green Beret mystery story in the new version of the case told by sources identified as CIA officials.

Defense lawyers for the eight U. S. Special Forces men held by the Army in South Vietnam for investigation on charges that they murdered a Vietnamese have alleged that the CIA was involved.

Attorney George W. Gregory said the alleged murder victim was a Communist double agent hired by the CIA. Some Saigon sources said CIA ordered him killed after films caught him talking with North Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Now, this version has been made available to newsmen in Washington.

The Vietnamese agent was working for the Green Berets and after he was suspected of being a double agent the Green Beret men asked CIA friends, who were also engaged in undercover work in South Vietnam, what they should do with the suspect.

The CIA officers recommended that the suspect be turned over to South Vietnamese authorities, who could pursue the interrogation into the suspect's activities and knowledge.

Later, one of the eight Green Berets came to a CIA colleague and said the suspect had been killed. The Green Berets had told their Army superiors in Saigon that the suspect had been sent on a mission. The CIA man advised that the true story be told to Army investigators.

An investigator then went to the Green Beret unit and determined to his satisfaction that there was evidence the Vietnamese man had died June 20.

In sum, according to this version, the Vietnamese victim was not a CIA employee, the CIA never ordered him killed but only recommended that he be turned over to South Vietnamese officials, and the CIA only learned of the reported death after it had occurred.

The Green Beret commander, Col. Robert B. Rheault, was relieved of his command July 21 and on Aug. 5 the Army announced the charges against him and the other seven.

The Army inquiry, a military version of a grand jury investigation, ended Aug. 21. It is now up to the investigating officer to recommend whether the accused special forces men should be brought to trial.

Eight-Year-Old Rescued From Under Tons of Sand

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy was rescued Thursday from beneath tons of sand which had imprisoned him overnight.

It was "a story with a fine, happy ending," a policeman said after Barry Lively of Niagara Falls was freed by rescue workers.

Barry was reported recovering nicely today in Children's Hospital at Buffalo from leg injuries, shock and multiple cuts he had suffered late Wednesday after he toppled into a tunnel while playing on a pile of sand at a cement plant near his home.

Police said the youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lively, apparently climbed atop a huge mound of sand that had been piled over a tunnel leading to conveyer belts.

He either fell into the tunnel or was swept in as the sand shifted under his weight and movement, they said. He was found wedged in a partially open grate through which the sand is dumped. Air coming through the grate kept him alive.

Richard Taibi, son of one of the owners of the plant said he found the boy's right leg hanging through the grate after a worker told him the conveyer seemed to be jammed.

Buckley Socks It to Left

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Amid shouts of "We want Buckley," the columnist and founding father William F. Buckley Jr. "socked it to the left" in the keynote address of the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) national convention Thursday night.

A crowd of more than 1,500 YAF delegates, members, and guests heard Buckley tell of the "curious paradoxes and student rhetoric" of critics of conservatism and discuss the differences between the old and the new conservatism.

David Keene, 24, the unopposed candidate for national chairman of YAF, agreed with Buckley. "The majority of students are just plain disgusted with what the Students for a Democratic Society are doing," the university of Wisconsin law student said earlier Thursday.

Three main concerns of the old conservatism must be looked at anew, Buckley said.

First, the democratic process must be re-evaluated, because the order in which it had been examined has now been challenged.

Second, due process must be re-examined in the light of its rampant abuse by "abstractionists and semantical profiteers" and the criminal rights decisions of the Supreme Court.

Third, the concept of upward mobility, its place in the conservative outlook and its relationship to the free market system must be studied.

Buckley told the convention that YAF, founded at his home in 1960 in Sharon, Conn., has a "glorious place in these days of upheaval and doubt. The historical role of YAF is not to abandon traditional concerns, but to accept the need for gut affirmations."

The convention runs through Sunday night, featuring as speakers cartoonist Al Capp, congressman Donald Lukens, Ohio, and Fulton Lewis III.

dug frantically to reach Barry, firemen inserted an oxygen hose through the grate to keep the boy breathing.

Police said they were unsure just how long Barry had been trapped but said it was at least 13 hours. A truck driver had seen a boy playing around a sand hopper late Wednesday afternoon. Barry's parents reported him missing to State Police that night.

Surgeons repaired damaged tissue to the boy's left leg Thursday night and listed him in fair condition.

Spends More Money

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Political parties and support groups spent 70 per cent more for broadcast advertising in the 1968 campaigns than they did in 1964, according to the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC said the Republican and Democratic parties each spent about $27.9 million for political broadcasting in 1968 and together they accounted for nearly 95 per cent of all expenditures. It said all other parties, including the American Independent party founded by George C. Wallace, spent $3.2 million.

Pressure Is Seen For Dubcek Arrest

VIENNA (UPI)—Pressure is mounting in Prague to arrest Alexander Dubcek and other leaders of the "Prague Spring" reform period, reports reaching here from Czechoslovakia said today.

Hardliners within the Czechoslovak Communist party leadership already have drawn up charges, ranging from "sabotage in high government office" to treason, the reports said.

The Czechoslovak press and radio have picked up these charges and—sometimes directly, sometimes obliquely—have been laying the groundwork for the arrest and trial of the men.

So far, the report said, any criminal action against them has been blocked by the personal intervention of President Ludvik Svoboda, who also prevented Dubcek's arrest—and possibly his death—in Russia after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia Aug. 21, 1968.

In Prague, informed sources said outspoken liberal Luděk Pachman, journalist and chess grand master, has been arrested, apparently for organizing a number of protests against the new orthodox Communist party line.

The reports reaching Vienna said the Communist party presidium met on the night of the first anniversary of the invasion, while anti-Soviet demonstrations raged outside, to hear demands by hardliners "those responsible" for the demonstrations be arrested.

Svoboda, they said, forestalled the move by stating, "As long as I am president, there will be no political trials"—a pledge he had given earlier in public in a speech before the anniversary.

Earlier reports said Dubcek and other reform leaders who still hold public office would lose those jobs when the party central committee meets next month.

He also could be tried on the "sabotage" charge, as could antisek Krieger, former chairman of the national front, who is alleged to have allowed anti-regime elements to enter political life in Czechoslovakia before the invasion.

Young Marines Set Big Day

KINGSTON — Ulster County Young Marines units will attend a field day and picnic on Sunday afternoon at Forsyth Park on Lucas Avenue, with activities scheduled from 12 noon until 4:30 p.m. Officers of the units will provide refreshments for the young marines, and features of the afternoon will be games and a track meet with awards for the winners. Families of the boys are invited to participate in the event, however, it has been requested that they bring their picnic baskets as it is not known how many adults will attend. PFC Jiggs, the unit's mascot, will be present.

Coupled with the announcement of the picnic, Training Officer John Ray Mayone has urged former members of the Marine Corps to volunteer their services to act as drill instructors to relieve the overload now assigned to the present instructors. Lack of a sufficient number of instructors may result in a halt to further recruiting. Any former marine interested in aiding as an instructor is asked to contact Gilbert E. Gray, commanding officer of the young marines.

Gray and Mayone also noted that a drum instructor is needed to instruct a drum section now being organized within the Young Marines.

City Seeks Patrolmen

Applications are now being accepted for the position of patrolman in the Kingston Police Department by the city Civil Service Commission. The salary ranges from $5,725 to $7,400. Applicants must be between the ages of 20 and 29 and be physically and mentally sound.

The written test will test the applicants for the ability to understand and interpret provisions of the New York State Penal Law, Code of Criminal Procedure and Vehicle and Traffic Law; the ability to exercise good judgement in the police field and the ability to prepare written reports.

Application forms and further information may be obtained at the office of the Municipal Civil Service Commission at City Hall, 408 Broadway. Applications must be filed on or before Sept. 18, 1969 at 4 p.m.

Don't burn his house down.

Part-Time Nurse Program

STONE RIDGE

The two-year Nursing Program at Ulster County Community College is open to part-time students as well as full-time students. Ronald A. Koster, the Director of Continuing Education, announced today.

He said part-time students can take courses needed for this program in the daytime or in the evening.

"There are many persons, who, because of other commitments, are unable to enroll in college as full-time students," Koster said. "Our nursing program, like other college programs, is not limited to just full-time students. There also are opportunities in the program for part-time students."

Koster said anyone interested in receiving counseling about entering the Nursing Program as a part-time student should call the college's Stone Ridge campus.

The college's Nursing Program is open to men and women regardless of age. It is a two-year curriculum leading to an Associate Degree in Applied Science. Graduates are eligible to take the New York State licensing examination for registered nurses.

Three new faculty members recently were appointed at the college to complete the Nursing Program's instructional staff for the 1969-70 academic year.

The Nursing Program will enter its second year of operation this September. The Department of Nursing is chaired by Mrs. Florence Irwin and is part of the newly-created Division of Biological and Health Sciences, headed by Association Professor Richard B. Glazer.

This Rhinebeck Residence--Really a Doll House

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
Follow Route 308 four miles out of the Village of Rhinebeck and you will see a small white sign advertising "The Original Doll Hospital."

Investigation will reveal a 14-room house, built in 1732 as part of the Schuyler estate, owned by Ferdinand Sator and his wife. Inside is perhaps the largest collection of antique dolls in existence.

There was a time when the doll hospital was a natural part of the American scene, when a little girl could not actually play with her doll, but rather "treasured it," in the words of Mrs. Sator. This was a time, up until about 30 years ago, when the average child received one doll which had to last for many years.

"I can remember getting new clothes for the same doll every Christmas," said Mrs. Sator, "and we wouldn't think of asking for more. This was our culture and we were satisfied with it."

Needed Larger Doll House

One of the major reasons why the Sators moved to the country from Northern New Jersey 14 years ago was to acquire a larger house for the dolls. "We had a six-room house in Upper Saddle River, N. J., but my collection became so extensive that we decided to get a roomier house," she said.

More than a thousand antique dolls now fill to overflowing three large rooms in the Rock City house.

But the fact that warms the hearts of little girls for miles around is that Ferdinand Sator is a highly skilled technician in the vanishing art of repairing dolls.

MRS. SATOR AND 'SUSAN'

It is a skill not to be taken lightly. Sator spent much of his spare time over a two-year period studying the craft from an expert in Paterson, N. J. He then bought the "Original Doll Hospital" in that city from the proprietor, who had died, and an auxiliary career was launched. Sator's main business concern was a pork store in Union City, N. J.

Delving deeper into the history of the Sators, we find that Mrs. Sator was born in Vienna before the First World War and came to New Jersey while a small child. She had no doll until her grandmother was brought over from Austria in 1912 with a handcrafted china doll.

Special

"When she landed in Hoboken, N. J., she wanted to turn right around and go back," she says. "My grandmother was used to the neat, clean streets of Vienna," and the sight and smells of Hoboken did nothing to reassure her.

Doll a Vital Role

But the doll was to play an important part in Mrs. Sator's life, creating an avoc interest which has never waned. As she showed this reporter her mammoth collection, all painstakingly dressed in period costumes and in perfect condition, she exuded enthusiasm. She explained that part of this boundless concern with her dolls was the result of having lost her only child in birth. The doctor advised her not to have any more, and suggested preoccupation with a hobby.

Besides having great historical value, the dolls are worth a great deal of money. Mrs. Sator was offered $1,000 from a dealer for one of the 28-inch bisque-headed French Jeannette creations. She values many others at several hundred dollars apiece. "Even the tiny China dolls we could get in the dime store for 25 cents years ago now sell for about $5 apiece," she said.

Among the fascinating collection were some very large, 40-inch dolls originally used as mannequins in department stores. "This one was used in B. Altman's in New York." All were handmade, giving them their value today.

One nattily attired boy doll was custom made for an English prince, "the one that was killed in the Tower of London."

Also included were such items of Americana as the Campbell kids, of soap fame, which were redeemed about 35 years ago for labels. Some of the famous original kewpie dolls, by Rose O'Neill are in the collection, with pointed tufts of bisque hair gracing their heads.

Very Strange History

A great financial success, Grace Putnam's By Low doll, has a very strange history. It was marketed right after World War I. The original cast used to mold the face was taken from the head of a baby born dead in a Salvation Army establishment because someone thought the features were so beautiful.

The majority of the China dolls, with movable joints, must be restrung with a special elastic available only in Europe. If they are not tightened properly, the joints relax and the appendages flap around.

Many of the old dolls have leather bodies, with heads made of wax, metal or bisque.

One entire large room in the Sator house is filled with baby carriages up to 200 years old, containing their little charges. Those about 50 years old are mostly made of woven reeds, but many people aware of the and the very old have large wooden wheels, similar to those seen on a "chuck wagon."

"There are always new collectors," said Mrs. Sator. "It is difficult to get started now, because it is so expensive. I began in 1931, and my major sources were interested friends, auctions and the Salvation Army. Most people nowadays are alert to the true value of these dolls, and you can't find them cheaply at auctions and the Salvation Army never sees them any more."

"Ferdie's" workshop walls are lined with dozens of shelves filled with parts, elastics, clothes, wigs and other accoutrements of the doll hospital world.

The old-fashioned dolls are much more intricate to restore, but many people aware of the facility bring in new dolls, some of which are quite expensive. "Parts for the new dolls are impossible to get; they are meant to be thrown out," says Mrs. Sator. "But the little girls would have a fit if Ferdie didn't fix them up. It brings such happiness to the children, and is just a hobby now with us."

One of Few Around

"The Original Doll Hospital" is probably the only such institution left in Dutchess or Ulster Counties, and one of the few remaining outside the New York metropolitan area.

The demand for a doll doctor is not great today, with affluence lending itself to replacement instead of repair, but Ferdinand Sator and his wife will have a job as long as there are little girls.

The Bells May Not Ring for Some

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School bells may not be ringing on time for thousands of children this fall, as teachers in several communities threaten strikes or other job action.

Much of the trouble is in the Midwest. Chicago's 19,000 teachers voted Tuesday on whether to strike at the opening of classes Wednesday. The maintenance workers in the 600-school system already voted to walk out.

At issue is whether the city will honor pay raises promised to settle a two-day strike last May. The school board, pleading a lack of funds, adopted a supplementary budget last week providing money for half the promised increases.

The executive director of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, Oscar Weil, said Thursday as many as 15 school districts in the state could be struck when classes open next week.

He said 600 elementary school teachers in Joliet voted Sept. 2 on a contract and five Chicago suburbs are still negotiating new shops.

Contracts. Almost 35,000 students would be affected in Joliet and the five suburbs.

One Illinois city already was hit by a strike. Teachers in Granite City walked out Wednesday, which was to have been opening day for 15,000 students. The dispute is over salaries.

In La Salle, Ill., the Tuesday opening of school was delayed by a strike by 80 of 110 teachers at LaSalle-Peru Town High School. Agreement was reached Wednesday and schools were to open today. At issue was the expiration date of the teachers' contract.

A union representing 100 of 200 teachers at two campuses of Waukegan Town High School rejected Thursday the board of education's latest wage offer. School is scheduled to open next Wednesday.

Indiana has two school strikes under way. Although classes don't start officially in most schools until Sept. 2, the walk-out has affected preschool workshops. In Hammond, the 4,200-member Teachers Association went on strike and set up pickets Aug. 15 in a salary dispute, delaying the opening of school.

Coaches were later allowed to start practice with the understanding that they were on strike.

The 200 teachers of the Lake Central School Corp. in the Schererville-St. John area south of Gary set up picket lines Thursday because the school board refused to establish a group contract.

In Michigan, 171 of the state's more than 500 school districts were without contracts late Thursday. Affected are 666,000 students and 28,000 teachers. Issues in question include wages, class size, binding arbitration and an agency shop concept. Some schools are to open Tuesday, others Wednesday.

William C. Kahl, state school superintendent in Wisconsin, said four school districts were without contracts. He said school districts where classes are delayed past Sept. 19 by strikes face a loss of some state aid. School was scheduled to open this week and next in Wisconsin.

In the East, teachers in Anne Arundel County in Maryland have hinted at job action in a salary dispute. Last spring, teachers boycotted two days of classes to attend mass meetings and they warn they may do the same this fall. The teachers say funds negotiated by their representatives and the school board have been cut by the county council, constituting a breach of agreement.

Has Court Date

Gerald Barber, 18, of Hasbrouck Avenue, is slated to appear Saturday before Special City Judge George A. Beck on a petit larceny charge. He was ordered to the county jail in lieu of $500 bail after his arrest Thursday by detectives on a warrant. The youth is accused of the theft of a pocketbook on Aug. 4.

Three ten-gallon purchases and it's all yours. For nothing more than the price of the gas.

(Participating dealers have all the details.)

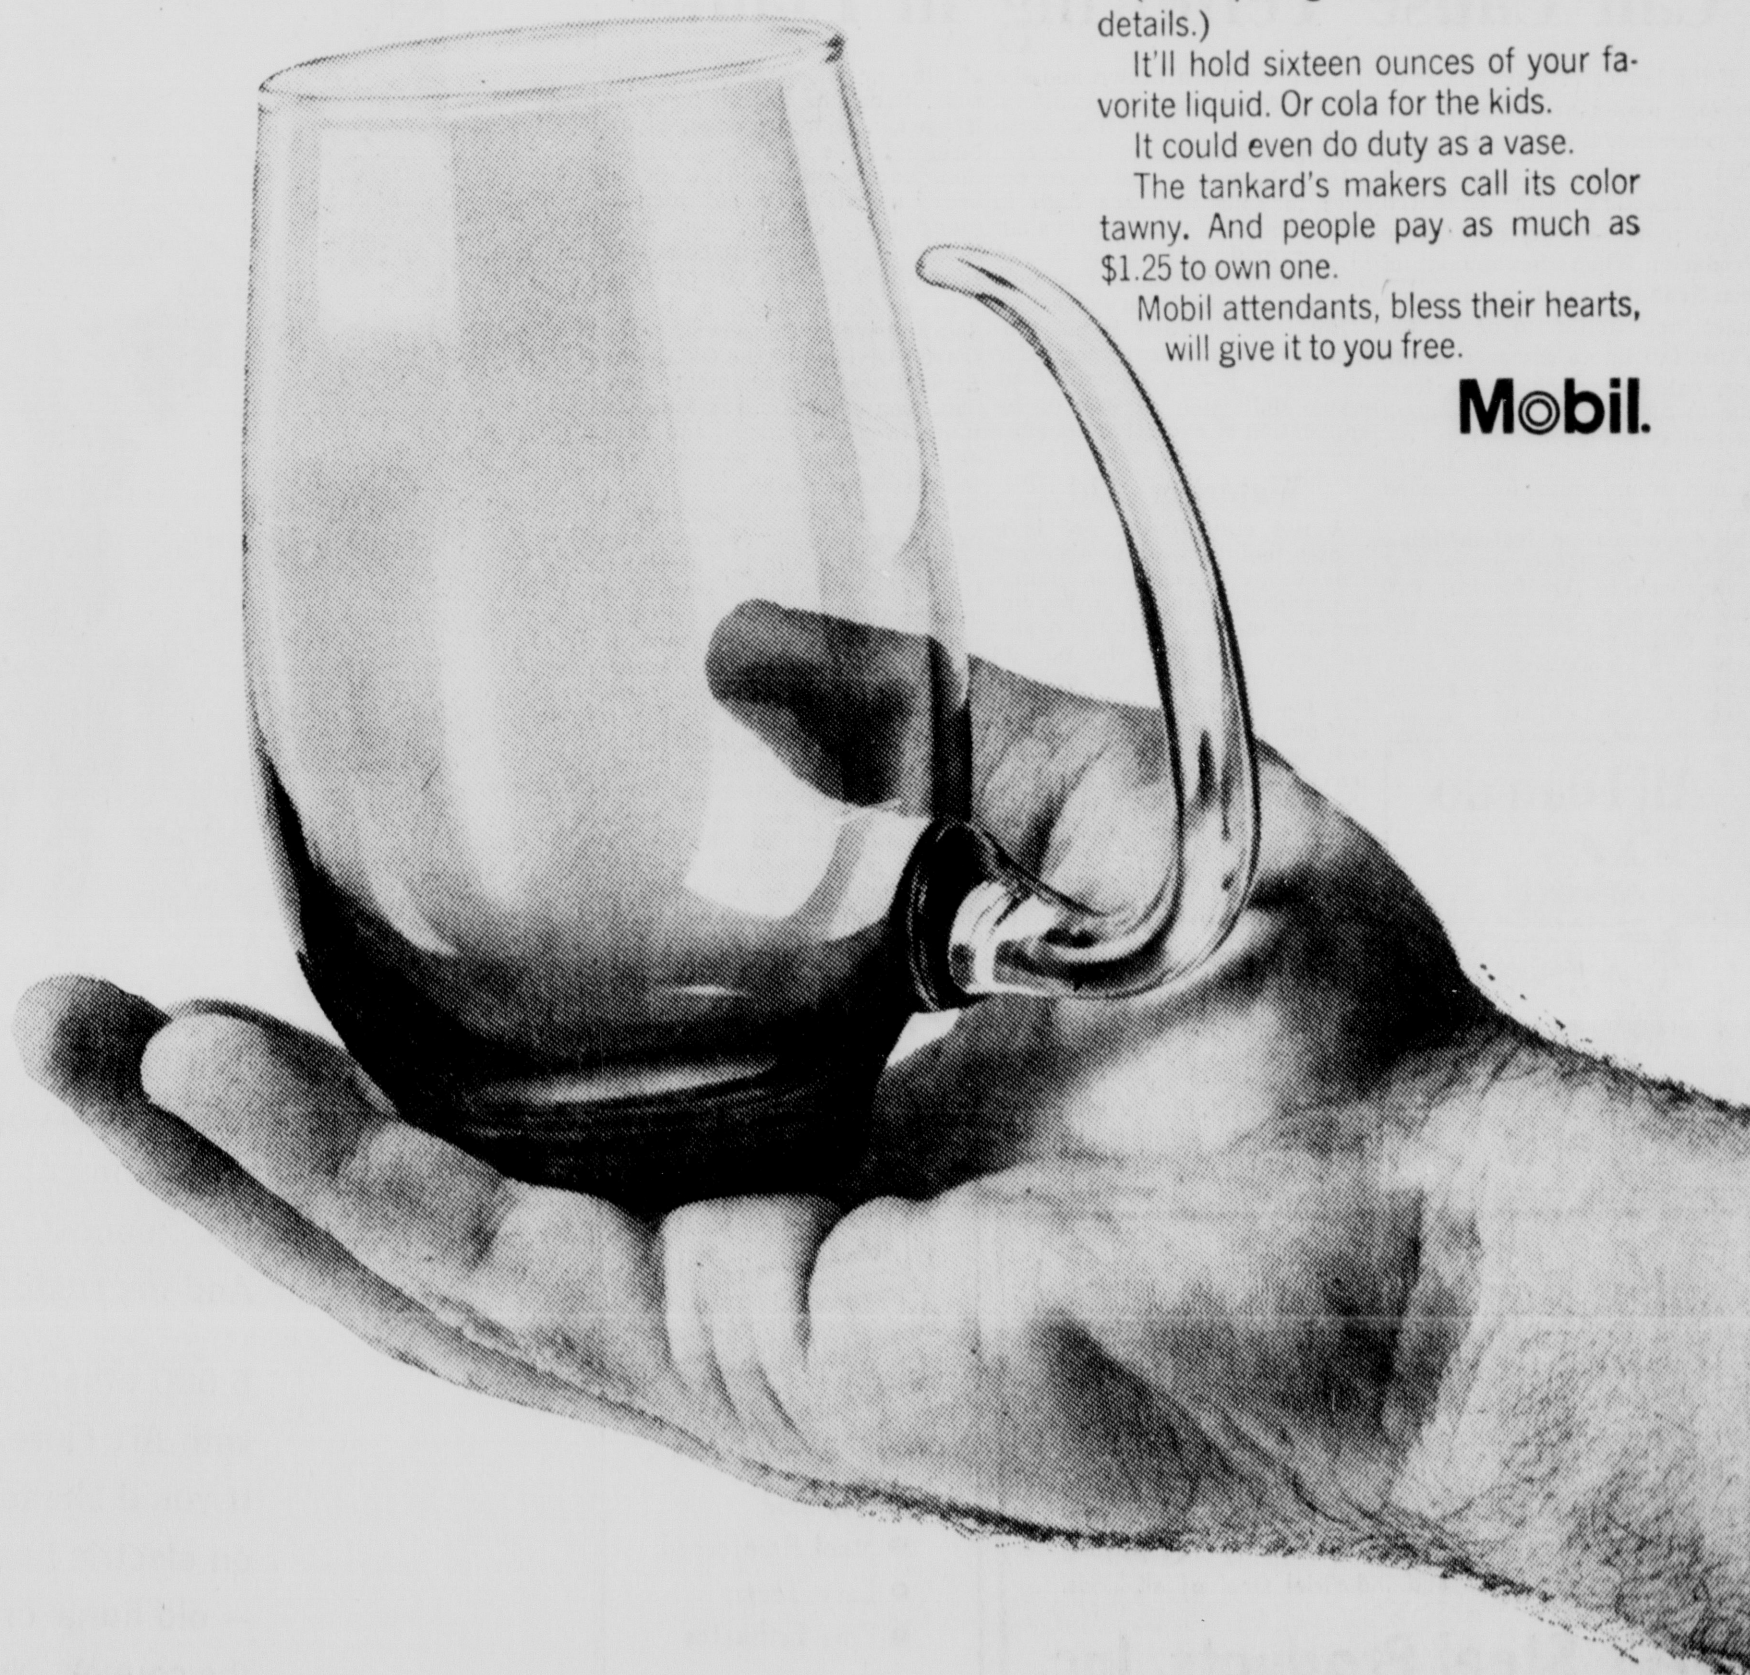

It'll hold sixteen ounces of your favorite liquid. Or cola for the kids. It could even do duty as a vase.

The tankard's makers call its color tawny. And people pay as much as $1.25 to own one.

Mobil attendants, bless their hearts, will give it to you free.

Mobil.

Mobil brings you the thirty gallon tankard. Free.

Lindsay Is Fighting For Political Life

NEW YORK (AP) — Only a year ago, Mayor John V. Lindsay was being mentioned as a possible Republican vice presidential candidate.

Today, he is fighting for his political life, rejected by voters of his own party and struggling for re-election as an independent.

His critics say he is a poor administrator and has done too much for minorities at the expense of others. Many look on him as mayor of Manhattan and say he ignores the four other boroughs. In the June primary, he won only in Manhattan.

Kept City Cool

His boosters claim he was principally responsible for keeping New York City cool while other major cities had riots in 1967 and 1968, that he has made the streets safer by hiring more police and modernizing equipment, that he is the only one who can pull together the city's diverse ethnic groups.

His opponents in a confusing race, where party labels appear to mean little and predictions are difficult:

—John J. Marchi, 48, a little-known Republican state senator from Staten Island who narrowly defeated Lindsay in the primary. He is the son of Italian immigrant parents. He also has the Conservative party nomination.

—City Comptroller Mario A. Proccacino, 56, a Democrat who has geared his campaign to "safety in the streets" and defeated four other contenders, including former Mayor Robert F. Wagner, in the Democratic primary. He has rejected the conservative label, describing himself as a "moderate progressive." But many liberal Democrats say they cannot vote for him.

Tall, Handsome

The tall, handsome Lindsay,

47, has the nomination of the tiny, but influential, Liberal party whose votes were a major factor in his 1964 victory. In addition, after his primary defeat this year, he formed his own independent party with the help of liberal Democrats and Republicans.

Of his chances, he says only: "This is a tough campaign. I feel our case is strong and that we will win."

Lindsay has been criticized, particularly by middle and lower-middle class whites, ever since he took office in 1965 on the day that a city-snarl subway and bus strike began. His popularity suffered again a year later when he initiated the city's first income tax.

His fortunes rose during the racially explosive summer of 1967. While Detroit and Newark had major riots, New York stayed calm as Lindsay walked the streets of the city's ghettos in his shirt sleeves. He was named vice chairman of the President's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, which investigated rioting in other cities in 1967 and 1968.

Lindsay also was building the city's police force to more than 32,000 men and modernizing its equipment and communications. Also, he worked to make city parks safe and attractive and bring people into them for various activities and entertainment.

Two Years of Strife

But, there were two years of teachers' strikes, a garbage strike, transportation problems, increased welfare costs, higher taxes, a police work slowdown and a worsening housing shortage.

Last fall, the city was shaken by three teachers' strikes over the issue of community control of controls. The teachers' union, which has many Jewish members, accused Negro community leaders of anti-Semitism. Lindsay, who supported decentralization, was accused by some of not taking a strong enough stand against the racial slurs.

To get re-elected, Lindsay must get enough votes from liberals of both parties in this traditionally Democratic city to overcome his lack of regular Republican backing.

Marchi says his primary victory was a mandate "for a change in the way government is operated." The main issue in his campaign he says, is "law and order. I would be cavalier with the public if I assigned it a lesser priority."

Proccacino says he will win because "I have the average people of New York City with me." He got less than one-third of the total vote in the Democratic primary.

Backed by Labor

Proccacino is backed by much of the city's labor leadership, including the one-million-member Central Labor Council.

He says he is for "better housing, for better schools, for beautiful parks and for improved transportation. But, he says, "You can't enjoy all of this unless you can walk the streets without fear. Since when is safety in the streets synonymous with conservatism?"

Proclaiming party loyalty, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller endorsed Marchi, although he supported Lindsay in the primary and contributed $50,000 to his campaign. President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew also endorsed Marchi.

Lindsay has the support of New York's two Republican senators, Jacob K. Javits and Charles Goodell; of the New Democratic Coalition, including former backers of Sen. Eugene McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy; and of Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union.

So far, several well-known Democrats have made no endorsement, including Arthur Goldberg, former Supreme Court justice, secretary of labor and U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Theodore Sorensen, attorney-author and Kennedy family adviser. Both are considering a run for the Senate next year and must consider the effect of their endorsements on the 1970 race.

Bid Deadline On Rondout P.O. Set August 30

KINGSTON

Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk has again notified the public that the deadline for submitting bids for the contract operation of Rondout Station on lower Broadway is tomorrow, Aug. 30.

The postmaster told The Freeman that as of today there have been no bids on the post office. He is expected to make a report on Monday.

Fall Fashions Shock, Distress; Males Go Ornate; Females Go Plain

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Fall and winter fashions will most certainly shock, delight or distress someone — either the wearers or their male friends — in the matter of hemlines and spaceage features.

Buyers left the Paris showings loaded with models they will spring on the foreign public.

This year there is no overnight switch such as there was with Christian Dior's new look in 1947. The long skirt groups in nearly everyone's collection received mixed reactions. It won't be easy to go back to them. Too many girls have pretty legs. Too many men enjoy looking at them. But the handwriting is on the wall.

On the other hand, ladies, pants are here to stay. They go into evening with beautifully jeweled tunics. They step forth for day topped by fur-lined chaubles with turtlenecks, knitted sleeves, and hoods or knit caps, matching gloves and ankle boots. They will be seen in the city, worn with daytime tunics or under fun furs and leather.

The word "freedom" has become involved in fashion. Jumpsuits are as important as pants. They are borrowed from the astronauts. Man on the moon has obsessed many pacesetters in couture. Cardin sees a new era in dress, a new dimension for living. So do Feraud, Courreges, Ungaro.

Most of the designers, however, promote woman. Chanel says she loves beauty. Her collection has never been stronger or more convincing. Wonderful hand loomed lightweight plaids, tweeds, checks and tartans are teamed to soft colors. Her famous little suit becomes a "costume." The top is now attached to the dress.

Givenchy is another promoter of elegance. He uses fabulous fabrics and keeps his lines controlled and beautiful. He shows a pants suit in Bianchini's stretch leopard silk print under a brown fur coat.

His prim English governess look, with the elongated cardigan or lacoste shirt top worn under slender belted tunic suits, is making history.

There are several ways to look this winter. Come cocktail time, Dr. March's daughters, Jo and Beth of "Little Women," are one way to endorse turn of the century charm. Or you may be a Gypsy, come evening, in chiffon.

Or you may step out of a Persian miniature or Stravinsky's Petrouchka in the fabulous embroidered coats, glittering with Oriental Splendor, as shown at Dior.

All designers are having fun with furs. Quality is no obstacle. The finest mink steps forth, dyed orange, to eged a tweed. Sleek broadtail is grapefruit yellow at Ricci's in a smooth coat. Every pastel, plus red, is shown by Givench in the lamb family and bear.

Believe it or not, silver fox is back in stoles, borders and linings. So get them out of motherballs, girls, you'll be right in the swing.

IF YOU'RE GOING TO DRESS SPORTY, take a gander at these jersey wool jobs being shown by internationally known designers Pierre Cardin (L) and John Michael. While Cardin's is a simple two-piece, three-button suit, Michael's is a white woolmark jersey resort suit with blue suede trimmings. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

DESIGNER MARC BOHAN endorses the midi trend in the Dior-Paris collection for fall-winter, 1969. The couturier stresses the long lean look in this claret red wool coat with a large notched collar and a self-belt looped slightly above the waist. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Wooden Shoes Crash Has Been Silenced

By VIVIAN BROWN

Wooden shoes are clunk-clunk-clunking their way to fashion fame in New York.

Actually, the Swedish-designed shoes aren't noisy — the wood is covered by rubber soles.

The silent cloppers are being grabbed up by models, career girls and other fashion-minded types and predictions are that they will be seen on college campuses this fall.

Available at a Scandinavian delicatessen in New York, the shoes come in 10 styles and six colors, but white and black have been the most popular.

The most popular style resembles a Dutch shoe without a back. Soles are wood, uppers are a soft leather-looking plain or perforated material that is stapled to the wood. Other styles include a suede shoe with a strap across the instep and a sandal consisting of two that buckle. The latter are more popular with girls whose feet are large.

Wooden shoes have been worn for many years by Scandinavian girls living in the city, one reason they were says Hans Booge, manager of the Second Avenue food store that specializes in imported goodies, prepared delicatessen items and a smorgasbord restaurant. On a particular day, the girls in the restaurant upstairs were wearing the wooden shoes.

"We can't keep up with the demand. We sold 30,000 pair in the last six months," explains Booge. "The shoes are coming airfreight from Sweden, but we always need more, and we don't even know what sizes, colors or styles to expect. The shoes are particularly popular with nurses and beauticians who must stand on their feet for long periods. It isn't just a fad. They buy them for comfort. The arch provides more comfort than most leisure shoes," he points out.

To reach the shoe department in the back room one now goes past the delicatessen's meat balls, herrings, salads, hundreds of cheeses and other delectable foods, and Finnish reindeer rugs. Soon, there will be a special building for the shoes.

"It is the utter simplicity of the shoe that fascinates stylish people. Many people want the wooden shoes in various styles," Booge says.

At first, people with high insteps have a little difficulty with the uppers, but each batch of shoes from Sweden seems to improve on the shoe design's comfort.

One legged model solved instep irritation the first days by wearing adhesive tape across her instep where the upper part of the shoe rubs.

"It looks a little crazy," she confided. "But I'm not going to stop wearing the shoes because my instep is a little high. I love them."

Time to Shine in All-Weather Rainwear

What do you wear in the rain? Something old and drab? That same raincoat you've been wearing for the last 10 years? Galoshes over your shoes? If your rainy days have been synonymous with no-fashion days, is it any wonder that you've been suffering the rainy day blues?

It's easy to develop a great rainy day look. Never before have there been so many intriguing possibilities: maxicoats over minidresses, pants suits with swashbuckling hats, "wet look" vinyls to gleam their way through the darkest day, pretend furs, leggy boots, and a whole range of colors and styles in umbrellas.

Today's rainwear is designed to look just as appropriate in the light of the sun or by moonlight as it does under cloudbursts. In fact that's the message behind this season's raincoats: they're all-purpose coats to be worn over all types of clothes from sun up till moon down.

A fall trend-setter is Main

Street's "wet look" of glazed nylon in an exclusive embroidered pattern alternating horizontal and diagonal designs.

Of course, the classic trench coat is still around. But now collar and cuffs are trimmed in fur such as thick racoon or imitation-seal. To further feminize some of these styles, wide self belts with tiny gold nuggets can be cinched tightly at the waistline. Lush pile linings also induce a warm feeling — no matter how raw the day.

Autumn Is Arriving

Today's Smart Look in Fall Fashion

NEW YORK — (NEA) —

There must be a reason why knits have never spun out of the fashion scene. The latest consumer reports show such an increasing amount of interest that women just can't own enough of them.

The reason is simple. They are neat, seasonable, stretchable, carryable and wearable.

Knits have taken over as a way of life to the extent that one firm in the business for over 50 years doing chiefly the basics that are welcomed in every wardrobe has now introduced a line called "Today." It is in keeping with today's look yet it is styled expressly to maintain a classic refinement. The sizes and lengths reach all levels. The clothes are simple and chic, knit with fibers that lend themselves to such niceties as subtle heading and embroidery.

Colors and patterns are unique to the knitting industry in these Apollo designs. Their muted tapestry tones of power red, blue bell, jungle brown, willow green and numerous other shades are shown in two tones, prints, plaids and solids — all subdued to maintain a refined image.

The go-everywhere dresses are styled in several ways with necklines varied from "V" to stand away collars. And with pockets, pleats and nipped waists they belt out the latest in fashion news. Some are two piece suits.

Others are dress and jacket ensembles of trevira, Dacron and linen polyester. And there are interesting double-knits in wool.

Pantsuits are Fall '69's explosive news in this line. Dresses over pants, long tunic tops with chain belts and dressier tunics embellished with surface charm.

The line is a real take-off in the fashion world. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

COUTURIER YVES SAINT LAURENT presents the maxi coat over jumpsuits in his fall winter 1969-70 collection. His number "82" features a Mao-collared jumpsuit (L) of gun-metal grey wool, worn under a maxi-length silver grey loden coat (R) styled with epaulettes, breast pockets, full swinging skirt and casual self-belt. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The smart dress (left) starts its two-tone wool striping under the mock turtle neckline and continues this detailing until reaching the bottom of the A line skirt. A buttoned belt-like band adds interest to this chic double knit. The look of today is the wide leg pantsuit brushed lightly over the top of the shoe and walking into a world of sophistication. The well-bred double knit fiber suit (right) has two front pockets and the loosely belted waist is buttoned up to keep fashion in. These designs are from Apollo Knitting Mills.

Installation Set for September 6

OFFICERS ELECTED — Installation of new officers of Congregation Ahavath Israel and its Sisterhood has been scheduled to take place in the sanctuary of Congregation at 100 Lucas Avenue, Kingston, on Saturday evening, Sept. 6, at 9 o'clock. Principals who will attend include standing (L-R) Ephraim Propp, incoming president, Congregation Ahavath Israel; Benjamin Schechter, installation chairman; seated (L-R) Mrs. Henry Jacobs, incoming president, Sisterhood Ahavath Israel; and Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman, spiritual leader of Congregation. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Members and friends of Congregation Ahavath Israel are invited to attend the installation of the officers of Congregation and its Sisterhood on Saturday evening, Sept. 6 at 9 o'clock in the sanctuary of the Congregation, 100 Lucas Avenue. Rabbi and Mrs. Harry Z. Schectman will serve as installing officers. The Hon. Aaron E. Klein will be the keynote speaker.

Officers of the Congregation to be installed for a two year term are: Ephraim Propp, president; Carl Lipton, Seymour Semilof, Joseph Cohen, Alvin Motzkin, vice-presidents; Irving Reuben, financial secretary; Mrs. Irving Scher, recording secretary; Marvin Millens, treasurer; members of the Board of Trustees of Congregation will also be charged with their duties. STUFFED CABBAGE

Stuffed Cabbage is an international favorite loved by Germans, Hungarians, Turks, Greeks and Austrians (to name just a few)! Our American variation of this hearty dish is enhanced with a dash of coffee in the stuffing. It is served with a tangy tomato-sour cream sauce, salad and steaming coffee.

Stuffed Cabbage

8 to 10 large cabbage leaves
1 cup cooked rice
¾ lb. lean beef, ground
1 small onion, minced
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons instant coffee
½ teaspoon savory
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup dairy sour cream

To remove outer leaves of cabbage, drop head of cabbage into rapidly boiling water. Lower heat. Simmer about 3 minutes; remove 8 to 10 outer leaves. (Finish cooking the rest of the cabbage, reheat and serve at another meal.) Remove tough portion of stem from cabbage leaves. Combine rice, beef, onion, parsley, salt, instant coffee and savory. Cook in vegetable oil until beef loses its red color. Cool slightly.

Place a large spoonful of mixture on each cabbage leaf, using 8 to 10, depending on size of leaves. Fold edges in; roll up. Place with overlapping edge down in greased baking pan. Pour in the tomato juice; dot with butter or margarine; cover; bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Remove rolls to platter. Stir sour cream slowly into tomato juice in pan. Pour some of mixture over rolls; serve remainder separately. Makes 4-5 servings.

Memorial Planned to Honor The Late Sister M. Berenice

A memorial in honor of the late Sister M. Berenice OSB, former administrator of Benedictine Hospital, who passed away in late July, is being planned by the hospital auxiliary, according to announcement made by Mrs. Edward Coppo, president.

Administrator for 35 years and a Benedictine nun for 50 years, Sister Berenice's instinctive capacity for making friends helped gain wide acceptance of the important role of the Benedictine in the life of the Ulster County community.

Sister Berenice's work at Benedictine was marked by dedication and self-sacrificing devotion which thousands of patients remember fondly. Because of her achievements the auxiliary members and friends plan the memorial in her honor.

Everyone in the community is welcomed to join in the memorial effort. Donations will be received until Sept.

Hank Starts Demolition Job

(By United Press International) Demolition of antiquated Forbes Field, once the pride of Pittsburgh, doesn't get underway for at least another month, but Hammering Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves has already started the wrecking job.

The 35-year-old Atlanta outfielder made his farewell to Forbes a personal triumph Thursday night by driving in six runs with two homers—one a grand slam—in powering the Braves to an 8-2 conquest of the Pirates.

The victory left the Atlanta pace-setting San Francisco Giants in the National League's Western Division title chase. Aaron's slam, the 12th of his career and his 36th homer of the season, came off reliever Bruce Dal Canton in the seventh inning.

Snaps Losing Streak In other National League action, the Chicago Cubs retiring Mays has 598 career homers. George Stone (118) scattered 11 hits through seven innings and Paul Doyle preserved the win for his Atlanta teammate with two shutout innings.

Giants Win Eighth The streaking Giants, running their winning skein to eight games, used a bloop double to center in the eighth inning by Ron Hunt to edge the Phils. The hit, Hunt's fourth in the

It's Still Cowboys In Texas

(By Associated Press) The Dallas Cowboys still are the pro football champions of the great state of Texas.

Their reign was threatened by a spell by the Houston Oilers before 55,310 in the Astrodome Thursday night, but the NFL Cowboys rallied in the second half and pulled out a 14-11 exhibition victory over their AFL rivals.

Quarterback Craig Morton passed 34 yards to Lance Rentzel for a third period touchdown that erased a 3-0 Houston half-time lead. In the last period, Morton engineered another TD. He passed 34 yards to Bob Hayes on the Oiler three and rookie Calvin Hill plunged over on the next play.

A 30-yard field goal by Roy Gerela gave the Oilers their early lead, but they didn't score again until the closing minutes when Don Trull tossed a three-yard pass to Jim Beirne, then passed to Hoyle Granger for a two-point conversion.

Morton finished the game with 14 completions for 218 yards in 32 passes.

The game kicked off a busy Labor Day weekend, schedule that has all of the 26 teams in the NFL-AFL in action.

The Kansas City Chiefs, unbeaten in four starts like the Baltimore Colts, play their NFL rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, tonight for the pro title of the great state of Missouri.

Nine games on Saturday and two on Sunday wind up the 13-game weekend.

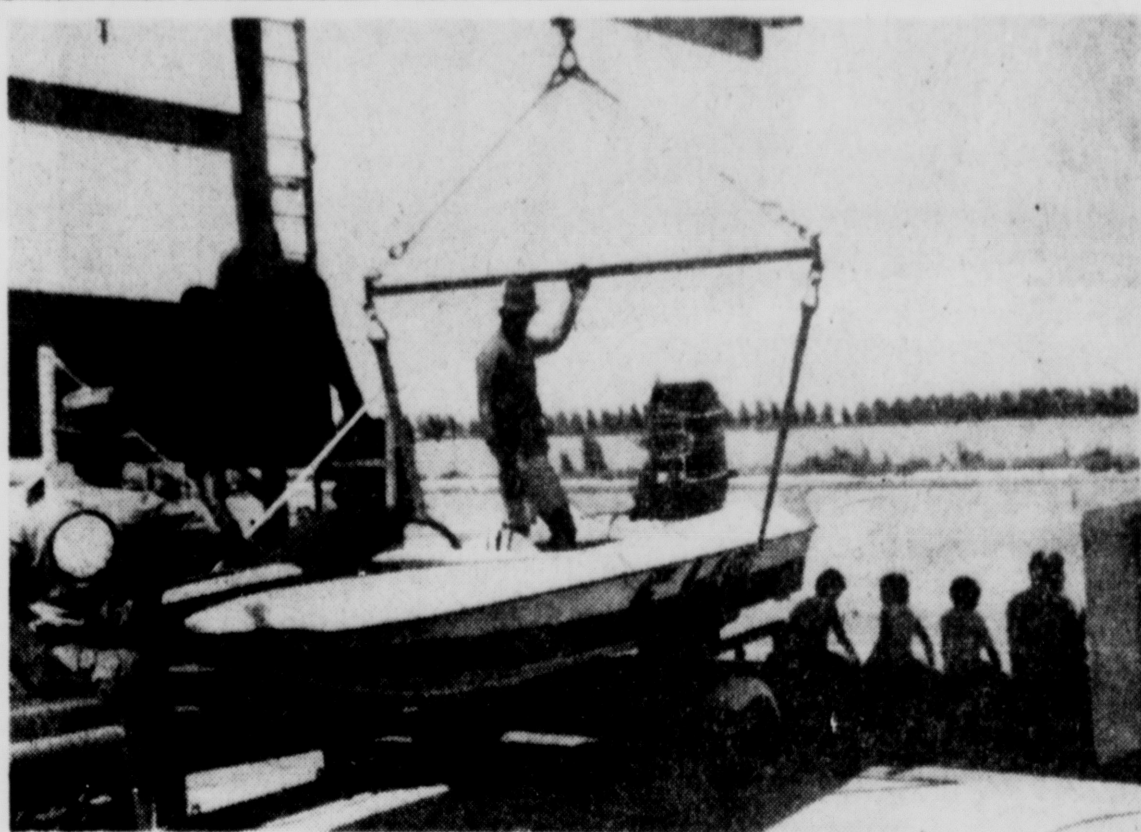

The Cardinals hope to stop the Chiefs tonight by putting the rush on quarterback Len Dawson and average last year's 13-10 loss to the AFL leader in the exhibition standings.

The annual two-night double-header before an expected 85,000 sellout at Cleveland features Saturday's games. In the opener, the Chicago Bears take on the Buffalo Bills. The Browns and Green Bay Packers tangle in the nightcap.

Joe Namath and his world-champion New York Jets take on the Minnesota Vikings at Winston-Salem, N.C. Baltimore is at Miami while Washington and Detroit play at Tampa, Fla. in a nationally televised (CBS) game.

Atlanta is at New Orleans, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at San Diego and the New York Giants battle Philadelphia at Princeton, N.J. in Saturday's other games.

On Sunday Denver plays Boston at Jacksonville, Fla. and San Francisco is at Oakland.

Orioles—No Letup

(By United Press International) If anyone thinks the Baltimore Orioles are sitting back, just playing out the season with an insurmountable lead, it's time to guess again.

The Orioles scratched and scrambled their way to victory Thursday night, 4-3, in 11 innings over the Seattle Pilots in a manner reminiscent of a team fighting for its life in a pennant race.

After falling behind 1-0 in the second, Baltimore tied it in the third when pitcher Jim Palmer singled in Dave Johnson from second.

The score then seesawed until the 11th inning when the Orioles scored the winning run in a classic style. Curt Motton led off with a pinch single and went to second on a sacrifice. A groundout moved the runner to third. Frank Robinson drew an intentional pass and went to second on a delayed steal.

Drops Perfect Bunt Chico Salmon dropped a perfect bunt down the third base line, and Tommy Harper, who had no play let it go, hoping it would roll foul. The ball stopped inches short of the bag in fair territory—and the game was over.

In other action Boston edged Kansas City, 9-8, and Detroit nipped Oakland, 5-3, in 13 innings.

Features 27 Hits

Tony Conigliaro's three-run homer in the eighth inning lifted the Red Sox to victory in a game that featured 27 hits and six home runs. Carl Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli each cracked a two-run shot for the Red Sox while Jerry Adair paced the losses with a solo home run and a bases-loaded triple.

Jim Northrup capped a 6-for-6 night with his second homer of the game to power the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Oakland Athletics in 13 innings.

Northrup's homer, his 18th of

Chet Joy Wins Shoot

ST. REMY Chet Joy paced the scoring for the regular Wednesday night shoot at the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun club with a perfect score of 1000. Joy shot only in the first round, hitting 25 straight, but there were no other perfect scores recorded, thus giving him the top spot.

Herb Zaccheo finished second with a fine score of 980, with a 25 straight. Grover Ellsworth scored 50 in a row, but dropped to third place for the meet with a 930. He was followed by John Doaks at 920, 25 straight and Bob Schemedake with a 907.

Other high scorers were Dan Hurley 904-25 straight; Harry Smith and Steve Maidel 900; Tom Bernardini 880; Fred Farber and Stu Miller 867.

This Sunday the Ulster County Circuit Shooters will hold a practice shoot at Wawarsing for the UCCS Field Day on Sunday, Sept. 7. The practice shoot this Sunday will begin at 12 noon.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING—Ferguson Jenkins, Cubs, ended Chicago's four game losing streak with a five-hitter, striking out eight, in a 3-1 victory over Cincinnati.

BATTING—Jim Northrup, Tigers, slammed four singles and two homers, the second with one on in the 13th inning, lifting Detroit to a 5-3 victory over Oakland.

Fights Last Night

AKRON, Ohio—Doyle Baird, 164, Akron, knocked out Danny "Mio" Perez, 162, Brooklyn, 9.

Scarselli Team Wins Town Loop

SAUGERTIES
A. J. Scarselli's routed Ted's Esso, 15-5, in the pennant playoff game Wednesday night to decide the winner of the Town Conference—Met Division title in the Saugerties Softball League. Free passes to first base told the tale as Ted's pitchers issued 17 walks.

The tilt ended in the top of the fifth inning via the league's "stopper" rule.

Sal Misasi not only kept the Esso's in check, but led the victor's attack with two singles, double, a walk and five RBI's.

Scarselli's now move into the Met Division's championship playoffs, a best-of-three series with Johnny's Hotel, the Village Conference winners.

In the Yankee Division, Mouse Wolven pitched and batted Michael's to the league's first "stopper" game of the season as the Barbers dumped South Side Men's Club, 10-0. The win allowed Michael's to remain in the pennant race with Spartan Pools.

Wolven permitted only a double and a hit batsman to reach base as he lowered his ERA to 1.43 and raised his league-leading strikeout total to 87.

Wolven was just as devastating at the plate, driving in four runs and a two-run homer, a single and a fielder's choice.

In other games in the Met Division, Helmsmoortel took a doubleheader from Boo's, winning the first game, 11-5 and the second, 17-4. Jerry Ollinger and Bob Craft homered twice for the winners.

Ferroxcube drove Rotron further into the cellar, dumping them, 17-7.

Muller Top Gun In Pistol Shoot

SAUGERTIES
George Heitz edged Richard Smith, 553-554, to win first place in the 22 calibre, 60-round match in the Kingston Rifle and Pistol Club's first 22 and center fire match at its outdoor range here.

Third place went to Richard Clark with a score of 548.

Ernest Muller, the crack Wawarsing marksman, led the 30-round center fire match with 274.

Edward Brown was second with 270 and George Seymour third with 267.

Muller also took top honors in Match 3, an unfired match which consisted of the aggregate of the individual's scores in the first two matches. His total was 888.

Brown had 815 and Smith 812.

All Ulster County clubs were invited to the shoot, with teams from Wawarsing, Middletown and Kingston appearing. Middletown took the team match with an aggregate of 3213.

Michael's Stay Alive

SAUGERTIES, 5, in Met Division play. It was Michael's Barber Shop kept their hopes for a Yankee Division pennant alive by edging Campbell's, 8-7, in an extra inning tilt in the Saugerties Softball League Thursday night.

The Barbers still have a slim chance to tie Spartan Pools, but it will require three losses on the part of the league-leaders.

In the fourth inning, Frank Allen and Joe Farrell slapped back-to-back homers off winning pitcher Mouse Wolven, but it wasn't enough as the league's strikeout leader hung on for the win.

Allen's four-bagger gave him the league lead with three. Bob Campbell's two RBI put him into a tie in that department with Bill Hanna, who got one.

Both have nine.

Campbell raised his batting average to .372, but Buster Buel, who needs five at bats to qualify for the title, went three-for-four, raising his average to .478.

Wolven's leading strikeout total stands at 93.

Boo's defeated Morgan's, 11-1.

Mrs. Lowe and Moore Winners In Voss Memorial Tournament

KINGSTON Ulster County championship, had net rounds of 100-25-75 and 98-25-73. Mrs. Gogg fired 100-24-76 and 96-24-72.

Mrs. Ivan Whitmore was all alone at net 149 with 97-20-77 and 92-20-72. Tied with net 151 were Mrs. Robert Cullum and Mrs. Mrs. Gerald Gruberg.

Mrs. Cullum had 89-17-72 and 96-17-79, as Mrs. Gruberg posted 99-23-76 and 98-23-75.

Competition in the men's division was limited to 18 holes and the winner was George Mrs. Overbagh, recent winner of the handicap division of the gross and 26 handicap.

Dr. Bernard Cohen was the runnerup with 92-21-71. Other leaders: Arthur Motzkin, 86-14-72; Brian Smith, 77-4-73; Larry Jacobs, 88-14-74, and Al Mazziotta, 91-17-74.

The tournament is played annually as a memorial to the late Adios Mann, a son of Adios Boy-Hidaway Linda, toured the mile in 2:10 flat, knocking 2/5ths of a second off his previous mark.

The second event was a trot, and Peppermint Red, an eight-year-old gelding by Phil's Harlan Boy-Shaydale Winda, under the expert guidance of Al Burton, came in first in 2:11 flat to make it two in a row. In his last time out, at Monticello on August 23rd, Peppermint Red achieved his first victory of 1969 in 2:11.3; but in that event, he was driven by his half owner, George Oakes.

Steamin-Mir was the place horse, and Pensive Paul, who started out third under the guidance of Kenneth McNutt, stayed in that relative position throughout the trot to end up as show horse.

Miss Barry Prom has had nine starts this year. She now has come in first twice; and second and third, once apiece. With four in the money finishes, that gives her a very favorable percentage from the wagger's point of view, standing, as it does, just under 50 per cent.

The daily double was a 3 Lachance, Monticello's current and 6 combination that returned top driver. However, it was exactly $84.00.

The best recorded winning time previously made by the daughter of Toby Barry-Prom Girl was set last year in exactly one second greater time than Thursday night's 2:06.1.

To prove her stuff, the matriarch mare accomplished her victory in a wire-to-wire finish.

Miss Barry Prom was pressed throughout the race by Steamin-Mir, driven by Giles Lachance, Monticello's current and 6 combination that returned top driver. However, it was exactly $84.00.

The opening event, a pace, consistently ahead of the pack saw the winner, Adios Mann, without serious challenge. Miss Barry Prom set fractions of :31.3, 1:03.3 and 1:34.1 before establishing the brisk mile mark of 2:05.1.

Greybeard Tourney Sept. 7

Seniors to Woodstock

WOODSTOCK Sunday, Sept. 7, after a one year stand at Wiltwyck Country Club, the 17th annual renewal of the greybeard classic was returned to the village links by popular demand. Seniors Association president A. J.

(Tony) DeLisio announced. "Wiltwyck is a nice course, but the old guys think of Woodstock as a second home," DeLisio said in announcing the return to Woodstock.

DeLisio also noted that the entire Woodstock Country Club facilities have been turned over to the Seniors tournament for the day.

"We are allowing ample time between foursomes and the Class A players (70 and over) will tee off last," the president added.

Deadline Monday

Deadline for entries is Monday, Sept. 1.

"We expect an entry of somewhere between 90 and 100," DeLisio said. "At present we have nearly 80 on hand and anticipate another 10 or 15 in the usual, last minute rush to beat the deadline."

Dr. Grant D. Morse, retired Saugerties school superintendent, is the defending champion in Class A and remains a strong favorite to repeat.

The Class A group will play over a special 13-hole layout, including the regulation nine holes, then Nos. 1, 2, 6 and 9, the second time around. This gives the greybeards two shots at the par-three 9th hole.

Competition will be in five classes by age: Class A, 70 and over; Class B, 65 to 69; Class C, 60 to 64; Class D, 55 to 59; and Class E, 50 to 54.

Vie for Plaques

Prizes will be awarded for low gross and low net in each classification, with low gross shooters recognized as divisional champions.

Two trophies are at stake—the Anthony J. DeLisio Plaque for the Class A winner, and the Jay Rifenbary Memorial Plaque for low gross shooter in the whole tournament. These are traveling trophies that stay at the home club of the winners for one year.

DeLisio has been reelected president of the Association, with Fabian L. Russell of Twaalfskill, vice president; Ralph E. Gardner, secretary; and Charles J. Tiano, treasurer. Association directors include: Dr. Robert F. Moseley, Twaalfskill; Robert H. Daley, Wiltwyck.

Rod Prefers Money To Title-Prestige

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—As a hardened contract pro, Rod Laver admits he's more interested in the $16,000 purse than the prestige of winning the U.S. Open tennis championship, so he's losing no sleep worrying about the Grand Slam.

"I don't think about the Grand Slam—I don't think it's that important," the 31-year-old Australian left hander said today as he pondered his prospects from a third round landing—two down and five to go.

The Slam—a sweep of the four major championships, Australian, French, Wimbledon and U.S.—is the goal of most tennis players, achieved in the past only by Don Budge in 1938 and Laver in 1962 as amateurs.

No one has ever scored the Slam as a pro but Laver now needs only the American title to do it.

"I don't let it bother me—get me up tight," the former Queensland farm boy said after scoring a 6-4, 7-5, 6-2 victory over Jaime Pinto-Bravo of Chile.

Someone asked Laver what he did before an important match. "I dress," he replied succinctly.

Rod is no Bob Hope with the quips but this is an indication of his complete relaxation and confidence in this tournament in which he is the No. 1 seed and the overwhelming favorite.

Picking the men he fears most, he listed Ken Rosewall, Tony Roche and John Newcombe, his fellow countrymen.

plus Arthur Ashe, the defending champion.

Ashe, the Negro Davis Cup star who also is involved in a racial dispute with apartheid South Africa, was taken four sets by Australian Dick Crealy, but he looked strong in winning 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

The second round was to be completed in both men's and women's singles today with doubles continuing.

The bottom half of the draw was to be played in the men's division—matching Newcombe No. 2, against India's Jasjit Singh; Roche, No. 3, against Thomas Koch of Brazil; U.S. Davis Cupper Clark Graebner against Britain's pro Roger Taylor, and 41-year-old Pancho Gonzales against Ray Ruffels, former Australian champion.

Melnik Still Leads

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI)—First round leader Steve Melnyk stumbled his way to three bogeys, a double bogey and two birdies on the first 14 holes Thursday but still held a one stroke edge in the second round of the U.S. Amateur golf championship.

Melnik, a 22-year-old University of Florida senior, bogeyed the first hole but birdied the fifth and ninth holes to make the turn one-under and go two-under for the tournament. But he bogeyed Nos. 10 and 12 to go back even again, then doubled bogeyed the 349-yard 14th hole.

Rick Jones of Worthington, Ohio, a 35-year-old steel manufacturer's representative who won the NCAA championship at Ohio State in 1956, protected his one over par first round score by plodding along at even par through the first seven holes. But he lost a chance to take advantage of Melnyk's misfortune and take the lead by getting a double bogey himself on the par-three 233-yard eighth hole.

John Farquhar, a 43-year-old stockbroker from Amarillo, Tex., almost birdied the ninth hole from five feet away and made the turn at even par, but then blew up and went five over par on the next six holes. That put him three strokes behind Melnyk and two behind Jones.

Allen Miller of Pensacola, Fla. and a University of Georgia senior who turned 21 only two weeks ago, fashioned a two-under par 69 and stood in the clubhouse at 146, four-over par and only two shots off Melnyk's pace.

Vinny Giles, a sandy-haired, freckle faced 22-year-old who was runnerup in the U.S. Amateur the past two years and who shared a second place with Jones at one-under at the start of the day, shot a 75 Thursday and finished with a two-day total of 147.

Bruce Ashworth, a University of Houston golfer who recently won the Texas Amateur, shot a two-over par 7 and joined Giles at five-over. On the course, Jim Masserio of Pittsburgh also was five over, two strokes worse than when he started, after five holes.

Defending champion Bruce Fleisher, who started Thursday's round seven strokes over par at 78, was unable to improve in the early holes of his second round. He was 11 over for the tournament after six holes and was in danger of missing the cut.

The field will be cut to the low 60 players and ties for the final two rounds Friday and Saturday. It appeared it would take no worse than a 155 or 156 to qualify.

KPA First Winner In BRL's Playoffs

KINGSTON KPA rallied for three runs in the bottom of the fifth and then choked off a rally attempt by the Knights of Columbus to win the first game of the best-of-three series for the championship of the Babe Ruth League by a score of 4-3. The K of C had won the National Division during the regular season, while the KPA took the American Division.

Rich Elmendorf started things off for the winners by drawing a walk in the bottom of the fifth. Steve Peruse singled, but Vine Mapes flied out to deep left field. Charlie Bouton then delivered a long triple to right center, scoring both runs. He then scored on an error.

The losers got two in the top of the sixth. Bill Weishaup singled. Dirk Hoffstatter reached on an error and stole second. Both men came home on a single by George Fatum.

Mike Droulette was the winning pitcher, while Mike Palladino was given the loss.

The second game of the series will be played tonight at Dietz Stadium. A third game, if necessary, will be played Tuesday, Sept. 2, at the Stadium.

Finch and Moore Tops in Hurley

WEST HURLEY

High gun honors for the South-side Rod and Gun Club's trap and pistol shoot went to Phil Moore and Bill Finch.

The unusual rule was imposed in the trap event that the shooter be in the "low gun" position when the bird is called for, simulating a pheasant hunting situation. Moore still managed to rack up a respectable 23 out of 25 score.

Finch took the prize money in the pistol event with a 40x50 score in a slow fire at 25 yards. The meet was conducted in 990-plus weather but the contestants are looking forward to cooler weather for the club's turkey shoot on Sept. 28.

'Gloves—Van Winkle's Capture CSL Openers

KINGSTON Boyle's Strangeloves defeated Johnny's Shell, 7-5, in the first game and VanWinkle Bedding dropped Twaalfskill, 9-8, in the opening round of the Shaughnessy-style playoffs in the Golden Division of the City Softball League.

The Strangeloves scored two in the first inning, four in the third and one in the sixth to eliminate Johnny's squad. Nippy Lasher was the winning pitcher, while John Crispino took the loss.

Lasher, Joe Modica and Dave Hoffman homered for the winners. Lasher and Modica had

BOOK UNVEILED

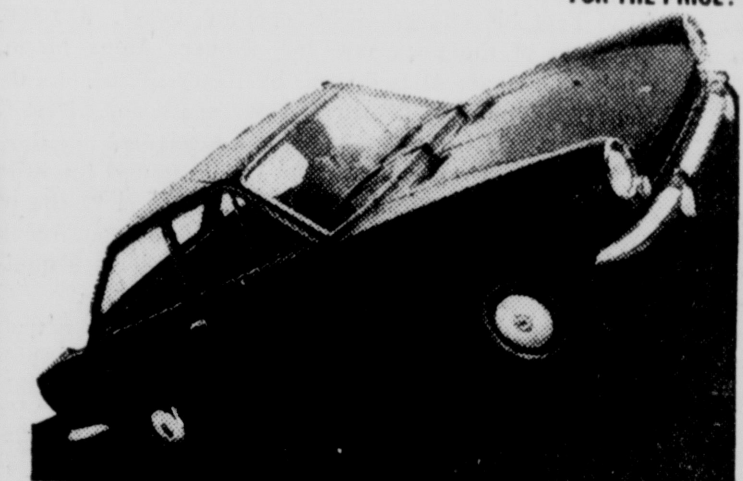

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Baseball Encyclopedia, a 2,300-page book which includes the records of every player who's seen action since 1876, was unveiled Thursday at a press preview. Bowie Kuhn, the commissioner of baseball, was the guest of honor.

The book, to be published Sept. 10 by the MacMillan Co. and Information Concepts, Inc., is a completely new work which has been researched the past two years and contains information, particularly about records before 1920, which has never been compiled.

New this year... the most exciting car of any year... dual overhead cams on high performance engine... 4-wheel disc brakes... speed synchronesh stick shift... full instrumentation... contour bucket seats... 2+2... Gran Turismo styling. $2995

Dear Abby

Compulsive 'Phoner

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard of "compulsive shoppers" and "compulsive eaters." Well, I am a compulsive telephoner. We are fairly new in this city and we don't know many people. My husband works out of town during the week and is home only on week-ends, so naturally I get lonesome and start calling my friends. They all live out of town, so these calls are "long distance."

North's jump to four clubs was a fragment bid. It conveyed the message that North wanted to play four spades irrespective of how weak his partner's one-spade response had been. Furthermore, if South had a good hand, he wanted him to know that part of the reason for North's very strong rebid was that he held a singleton club. Practically every modern partnership uses some form or other of this bid. Some pairs use an antifragment bid and jump the suit in which they don't hold a singleton. Players using the antifragment would jump to four clubs with the North hand.

Change the North hand a trifle by giving him the king and a small diamond and two little clubs instead of his actual holding, and he would simply raise to four spades.

It costs a pair very little to use one of these artificial bids. Thus North could jump to three clubs if he wanted to force with a heart-club, two-suit type hand. Thus when a partnership uses a fragment or an anti-fragment bid the jump to game in partner's major suit response shows a very good hand but denies a singleton.

South doesn't have much of a hand but he can move to the spade slam with confidence since he knows that his partner's trumps can take care of his losing clubs. The slam isn't an absolute laydown since bad breaks in the major suits might lead to defeat but it should be bid and with the actual lie of the East-West cards, South can play two rounds of trumps, set up dummy's fifth heart by ruffing out East's queen, and wind up trumping two of his clubs and discarding the last one on that fifth heart.

I won't even tell you what charge is a nightmare which last a lifetime. It brands your parents, sisters, brothers, and even your friends.

Can you imagine what it's like for parents to get a call at 3 a.m. and be told that their son or daughter has been arrested for narcotics? Then you are mugged and booked and have a record with the FBI for a "felony."

The kicks from drugs is simply not worth the gamble. I have learned the hard way, and it is hell.

FBI RECORD AT 20

DEAR ABBY: I think your husband's solution is probably the best. Just don't start calling your friends "collect" or you're apt to find that they don't love to talk as much as you do.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a gentleman who lets a lady win in a game of sports or cards? THE LADY

DEAR LADY: If a gentleman lets a lady know that he has let her win, he's no gentleman.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if the kids today ever stop and ask themselves—"Is it worth the gamble?" I'm talking about grass, acid, and all the other illegal narcotics.

Altho my part with drugs was very small (I was not "addicted"—I was only an experimenter), I got "busted" anyway. I was one of those people who thought, "It can never happen to me." Well it did.

Most kids don't realize that being arrested on a narcotics charge is a nightmare which last a lifetime. It brands your parents, sisters, brothers, and even your friends.

Can you imagine what it's like for parents to get a call at 3 a.m. and be told that their son or daughter has been arrested for narcotics? Then you are mugged and booked and have a record with the FBI for a "felony."

The kicks from drugs is simply not worth the gamble. I have learned the hard way, and it is hell.

FBI RECORD AT 20

DEAR ABBY: The man who keeps worrying about his son's long hair should be more concerned about what's INSIDE the boy's head—not out! The modern generation wants to be "modern," so what do they do? They start wearing long hair the way men wore it 200 years ago!

The Spanish have an old saying, "The cloth does not make the monk." So why should I worry about the way the next fellow wears his hair?

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY AUGUST 30, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Cycle high. Stress independence of thought, action. Make suggestions. Spotlight on your personality and appearance. Welcome new contacts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be receptive. If you avoid being stubborn, this proves constructive period. Let one close to you have spotlight. And do not argue with ARIES today. Take it easy—enjoy theater.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on friends, social activities. You may not find this a good time for studying details, but it is excellent for pleasure, versatile approach to various aspects of life. Have fun.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get down to basic issues. Discuss ambitions with loved one. You are going to need cooperation. Now you can outline those requirements. Be realistic; pay heed to rules, regulations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Day to get views on paper. Communicate. Don't hold back. Say what you mean—mean what you say. Don't beat about the bush. Good lunar aspect promises favorable response from afar.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money and how to save it—area is accented. Involves mate, partner, one who influences you. Frankness is an asset. But it might also be difficult—many want to hide actual facts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may not completely understand views of mate, partner. Discard rumors. Study facts. Play waiting game. Don't be in a hurry. A written agreement may be a necessity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Assume responsibility. Applies especially to condition that could exist at home. Discuss and be reasonable. But get the job done. Later you can have fun in relaxed atmosphere.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You find out the truth in connection with emotional involvement. Day also features dealings with children. Keep promises. Look to future. A long-term arrangement could be completed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A new approach to lingering problem is advocated. Speak up; get rid of methods which waste time, drain emotions. Prepare plan or format—have facts at hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Forces seem to be scattered. Fine for enjoying social affair. Leave details to others. Pay heed to words of CAPRICORN individual. Display sense of humor.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Fine for pursuing hobby which features special collections. You can obtain genuine bargains if observant. Watch budget tonight. Accent on quality and simplicity.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you want to help others. Many consult you. You are especially skillful at aiding others to improve appearance. A relationship may be reaching critical point.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

DISTANT LOVE: (Q.) I live in Texas. A guy in New York and I are very much in love. We met when I visited my grandparents there two years ago. He calls me on the telephone all the time.

We plan to get married when I'm 19. I'm 17 now and he's 18.

This summer he invited me to visit him. He said he would pay my way. We wanted to see if our love was real and not just a telephone infatuation. We wouldn't have done anything wrong, because he wants me to be a virgin when we are married.

But my dad is very stubborn and would not let me go. Do you think he was right? What should I do?—Mixed up in Texas.

(A.) No matter how honorable a boy may be, there is the implication of something else when he offers to pay a girl's way to visit him. Your father was no doubt upset by this. He was also probably dubious about a boy he does not know who lives in a distant and different state.

If the boy can pay your way to New York, he can pay his way to Texas. Invite him to fly down for a weekend. Your father may find your friend is just what he's looking for in a son-in-law. I hope he does.

TOO BRIGHT: (Q.) My mother says my eye shadow is too bright. I use a blue or green brush-on type. Do you think this is too bright? My eyes are blue-green.—L. in Arcata, Calif.

(A.) A girl with blue-green eyes is usually very fair. Such a girl has to avoid a brassy look in her eye make-up. You could tone down the blue or green, and at the same time get the effect you need, by using beige or taupe eye shadow underneath.

Almost Like 'Pyle' Days

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sutton was bellowing furiously at Jim Nabors. Jim Nabors, in a high-pitched, back-country voice, was innocently protesting.

The pair, abetted by a young New York actress named Karen Morrow, was rehearsing a sketch for the new "Jim Nabors Show." It could have been a rehearsal for the dear, departed "Gomer Pyle—USMC" which over the past five seasons made a top-Nielsen TV star of Nabors, and that was no coincidence.

The difference, when the sketch was put on tape two days later, was that both Sutton and Nabors were in civilian clothes, instead of uniforms and were playing their new parts as brothers-in-law. The weekly sketch is one important way by which Gomer Pyle is being converted into Jim Nabors, singing, dancing variety host, while—hopefully—carrying along that legion of Gomer fans.

During the rest of each show, Nabors will permit other facets of his performing repertoire to show.

The network, CBS, would have been happy to continue as long as there was life in the simple, innocent comedy of Gomer and his fearsome nemesis, Sgt. Carter. But Nabors wanted a change of pace and, unlike most TV stars, was determined to abandon Gomer when he was still ahead.

The new show, like most of the new and returning variety hours, will be a mixture of music, chorus dancing, comedy sketches and guest stars. Nabors will periodically uncock his rich, deep voice in solos, work in the comedy sketches and introduce the guest talent.

The run-through, held in a big CBS rehearsal hall, was watched closely by an audience of 50 or more—not one of them a casual onlooker and all working on or in the series.

Sutton, a Broadway dramatic actor who has been Nabors' foil during the Gomer years, mopped his brow and looked relieved after the rehearsal.

"Frank has never done anything like this," Nabors explained. "But we thought it would be good for the show if he came along over with us. We didn't want to push, but he thought it over and decided to do it. Now he's singing a little, dancing a little and doing fine."

Actually, the transformation of simple-minded Gomer Pyle into tall, well-dressed Jim Nabors has been in progress for several seasons. He has appeared out of comedy character in his own special variety hours several times and been a guest star on a lot of other shows.

Gomer has given Jim a handsome hilltop home in the San Fernando Valley which most often is shared by visiting members of his family from Sylacauga, Ala., a Rolls Royce, swimming pool, walls full of good art and a healthy bank account.

The question, which only can be answered in the coming of money, effort and the stuff months, is whether it is Jim or that makes ulcers.

Gomer that the public really be answered in the coming of money, effort and the stuff months, is whether it is Jim or that makes ulcers.

Looks Like the Meters In Rosendale Anyway

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE

Mayor William P. Curran today said the village will consider installing water meters in 425 locations throughout the district despite a 81-74 defeat of an advisory vote Thursday.

Curran said "the first step" to rejuvenation in the village district will be called for by the mayor and trustees, because, he said, the Thursday poll "was not representative" of the users opinion.

He charged that a campaign by "a small corps of reactionary people against me and meters" brought the defeat at the polls. Curran said the vote was "sufficiently close" to show that "the people are willing to accept water meters."

Curran said "no campaigning was held" for meters. "No campaigning, no telephone calls, no dragging into the booth, by me to get votes for meters." He said an "active campaign against meters was held."

"We will accept the results of the vote to be for meters," said the mayor. Voter approval or rejection is not required to consider purchase of meters, but the mayor and Trustees William Ritter and Kenneth Smith said they wanted the public to make the decision.

Smith said today, "I thought it would go through." The three were said to be "discouraged" over the results and the "active campaign" against meters.

Curran said "we will sit on it" until the next monthly meeting of the village Wednesday, Sept. 17 in the firehouse.

Meters had been sought by village officials to halt unequal rates charged on a "per tap" basis with small users being charged the same as large users.

Cases had arisen where families with one or two dependents and a large number of water taps were charged more than large families with a small number of taps.

Curran had contacted some 15 water districts in the Hudson Valley to obtain sample water rates that could be charged with the meters, working the total annual water budget against the number of users. A minimum rate was also being sought by the village.

"The first step" was a stunt for a short while early this month when the village said it was considering imposing a water ban on district users due to dwindling supplies. Water Commissioner Eugene Mulligan charged at that time that "the only reason" persons were using excessive amounts of water was as a protest to the May increase in water rates.

Mulligan reported that use in the district was 120,000 to 190,000 before the rate increase, but "after he (Curran) doubled the rate, its 100,000 gallons more" or 200,000 to 230,000 a day total.

Meters, said the mayor at the time of the water ban threat, would cut consumption by as much as 20 per cent, with the users being more concerned about the increased cost over use.

Bans have been imposed in the village in the past with 1964 and 1967 being two major cases.

3-Way Race Now in Ulster

TOWN OF ULSTER. With a three-way race for the Republican nomination for supervisor and three known contests for town offices, the Town of Ulster Republican caucus next Tuesday promises to be one of the liveliest in the county. It will be held at 7 p. m. in the Chambers School.

The newest candidate for supervisor is Ulster businessman Irving Rudolph who will oppose incumbent Thaddeus Musiakiewicz and Carmine Sabino, both of whom previously announced their intention to seek the office.

Both Musiakiewicz and Sabino are life-long Republicans. Rudolph, a former Democrat changed his registration earlier this year.

It is also reported that Republican Councilman William Costello, who has made his candidacy known, will be opposed by Frederick J. Wadnola.

Tax Collector Harold Atkins reportedly will face opposition from Shirley Wilmoth and Asessor Edwin Callahan is being opposed by John Osterhoudt.

In announcing his candidacy,

Rudolph said he "favors taking advantage of the many state and federal programs available to the town." He said he is interested in improving recreational facilities for the young and is interested in giving assistance to senior citizens.

Rudolph has been in the surplus and scrap business for many years and wishes to apply good business methods to the advantage of the town government.

He and his wife, Pinky and their daughter, Zella Ann, 8, reside at Lincoln Park Place, Ulster.

Rudolph asks all enrolled Republicans for their support at the caucus and to work with him for better town government.

School Cuts Scored

Fair Petition

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

Results of the Dutchess County Democratic Committee booth petition at the Rhinebeck Fair last week, disclosed the public disenchantment with cuts in education funds, according to Chairman Glen Van Bramer.

Van Bramer delivered the petitions containing 1,582 signatures to Gov. Rockefeller's Albany office today. The petition called for a special session of the State Legislature for the express purpose of restoring funds for education that were cut out of this year's budget.

"Two things were made very clear to me while I was collecting signatures at the fair booth," Van Bramer said. "People strongly resent the cuts in education funds that have made it extremely difficult for local school boards to present budgets that will gain voter approval. The public believes that when the state mandates programs and promises funds, the state should honor that pledge—not change the rules of the program half way through.

People also know that the cuts in aid to local districts will be much worse next year unless corrective action is taken now."

"The local taxpayer has been taxed to the limit. The additional school taxes that were made necessary by these cuts were the straw that broke the taxpayer's back. Many voted against their school budget not so much in protest to that particular budget, but in protest to high taxes in general. We must press for reform of the tax system to provide a more equitable base. No longer can the homeowner in the middle income level bear the brunt of the tax burden."

Van Bramer said that he hoped the governor would act on this request and that the three present Republican Dutchess County state legislators who voted for these cuts in education funds would see the magnitude of their mistake and join in this call for a special session.

The Dutchess County Board of Representatives endorsed the call for a special session earlier this month. The resolution was sponsored by Democratic Minority Leader Jack Economou.

Regrets Refusal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department says it regrets North Korea's refusal to tell the United States what happened to the three crewmen of a U.S. helicopter downed over North Korea Aug. 17. Spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Wednesday that at a meeting with the secretary of the United Nations Command the United States refused to disclose any information about the crew or the craft. McCloskey said the United States also has asked for information in a separate message through the Military Armistice Commission.

Ellenville Fire Probe Asked

ELLENVILLE

Fire officials today called upon State Police BCI officers to investigate a fire of suspicious origin which destroyed a large two-story frame building on Briggs Highway about two miles outside this village.

Chief Robert Madden said at 1:30 a.m. today there was no sign of fire in the structure and 15 minutes later the upper part of the building was completely involved in flames. The intensity of the fire aroused suspicion of fire officials, Madden said.

When two fire units arrived at the scene the large frame building, known as a playhouse-casino, was engulfed in flames, the chief said. Firemen shuttled water from hydrants in the village to a swimming pool near the fire scene and then pumped the water into the raging blaze.

The owner, identified as Fred Nersishech, used the converted barn for storage of a motorboat and lumber.

Twenty-five firemen from the local companies and a tanker crew from Napanoch summoned through Mutual Aid battled the flames.

Too Many

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Joseph James O'Connor was tired of getting other people's pills. When he is buried Wednesday, his tombstone will bear the name "Gulliver Edward Foyle."

O'Connor changed his name legally in 1965. He told the judge there were too many J. J. O'Connors here.

"It's the last weekend before school. Let's DO something Sunday that's fun for the kids, teenagers, mom, dad, and even grandma and grandpa too. But what?" (See p. 4 for the answer.)

Saugerties Rate

SAUGERTIES. Saugerties Central School Board of Education has set the school tax rate for 1969-70 at $118.78 per $1000 of assessed valuation. This represents an increase of $5.55 over the rate for 1968-69 of $113.23. This rate affects residents of the Town of Saugerties who live within the school district. Rates for the portions of the Towns of Woodstock and Ulster within the Saugerties School District are $130.31 and $119.75 respectively.

A total of $1,389,638.69 will be raised on local property taxes for support of schools—$1,304,870.73 from Saugerties, $18,065.30 from Woodstock, and $66,702.66 from Ulster.

Tax bills are being mailed by Collector William Woestendiek and will be collected as follows: Without Penalty: Sept. 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 29, 30, Oct. 1, 2, 3, 4, 1969; 2 per cent Penalty: Oct. 6 through Oct. 31, 1969; 3 per cent Penalty: Nov. 1 through Nov. 10, 1969.

3rd Rejection In Wappingers

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Voters have turned down for the third time a proposed school budget for the nearby Wappingers Central School District. School officials said Thursday that an austerity budget would be adopted "to keep the system going" after defeat of the $15.7 million proposal.

Count Fewer Farms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 1969 agricultural census probably will show there are fewer farms in the United States than at any time in nearly a century, according to the Census Bureau. It said Wednesday the census, to be conducted in January, will count fewer than 3 million farms, compared with 3.2 million in 1964. That year, the average farm was 352 acres, compared with the 1935 average of 155 acres.
